DEDICATION WITH LOVE TO MR. FRANK BEERS

For years the friendly face of Mr. Beers has blessed our campus. He is the man who can answer almost any question you might have about what's goin' on in All Saints' life. He is on campus 25 hours a day! He's been on our campus longer than the campus has been on our campus (figure that out).

When you need anything done on campus; a smile and a polite request will have him running to help. With more heart problems than you can set a pace-maker to, Mr. Beers returns from each medical adventure ready to get back to work. He defies nature with his sustenance, he rivals any workaholic with his time and devotion, he is unfaltering in his pursuit of excellence. Perhaps above all, Mr. Beers puts kindness and love ahead of all his decisions.

Mr. Beers is a man of history (and we're not poking fun at age ...). Most of his life has been spent in working for the Episcopal Church, both here in Fort Worth, at Camp Crucis as well as in New York. He is a God-centered man, serving his Lord by serving his people.

To dedicate a Yearbook to this man is but a trifle compared to the value his love is worth to us all. We dedicate this yearbook to the one we love...

Mr. Frank Beers.

What Mr. Beers can be caught doing in one day's time: patrolling the campus in the wee morning hours before anyone else is around, unlocking buildings on campus, turning on the heating and/or air conditioning, unpacking frozen "foods" in the cafeteria, answering the telephone before secretaries arrive, heating lunches, distributing mail and packages throughout the day, serving lunches to munchkins, serving lunches to monsters, straightening up after the munchkins and monsters in the lunchroom, keeping a watchful eye over all that happens each afternoon, locking up buildings, turning off air conditioners and/or heaters, and is the last ember on campus as the sun sets each night.

Look around you!

The new building on campus has a lot to offer. Whether you are in the High School or are enrolled in the ALPS program, we all love the new building.

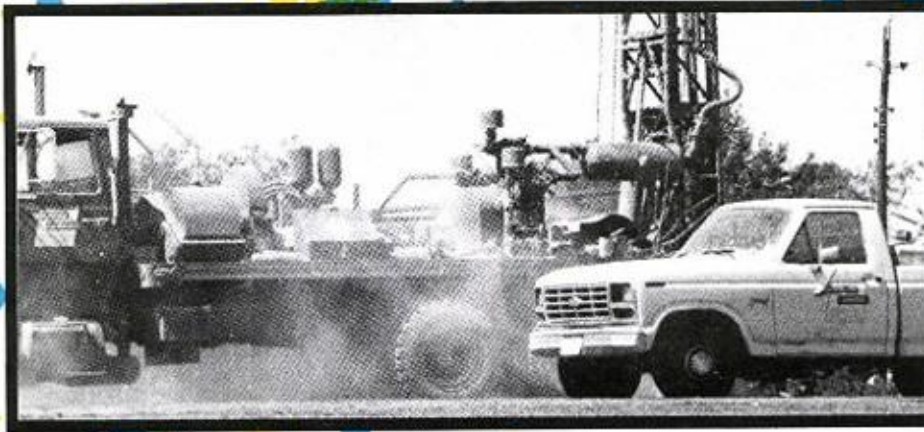

Our leaders are BIG, our leaders are STRONG! New principal, Mr. Barber, was a natural addition to the Middle School this year. Mr. Henning moved on up to the High School as principal.

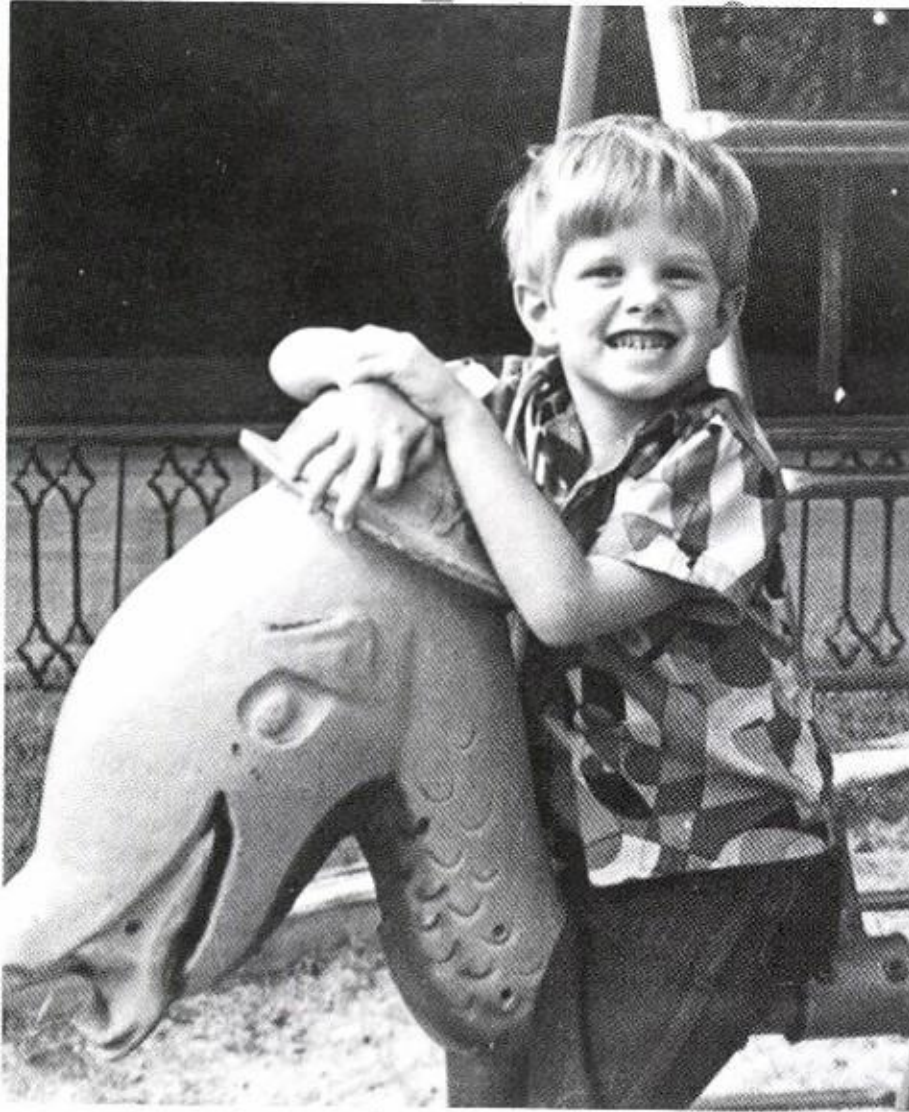

When we first saw it we were light-headed. On second glance, it was still there. Hard to believe, but in the cafeteria there were THREE soft drink machines. We thought, "surely there will be a sign saying 'Teachers Only'", but alas, it was truly meant for student use. So we poured all of our quarters into the machines and sometimes even got a drink!

WHEN IT ALL BEGAN

... we saw drilling rigs on the soccer field. Those rigs drilled core samples to begin the construction of the new building. 4,000 tons of dust later, there was a foundation in place, and then pipes sticking up, and then the amazing walls poured into place on the foundation. Cranes arrived, after a few weeks of rain they lifted the two-story walls into place. Everyone was amazed and impressed. Not only was this building REALLY not made out of tin cans, it was really going to have concrete and steel. A few months later, the interior walls were in place, painting and floors were applied and a few hours before school began, most of the furniture arrived (all needing to be assembled, of course). And here we are today ... a new building. A building we all needed; a building we all love; a building we all have helped to pay for, happily!

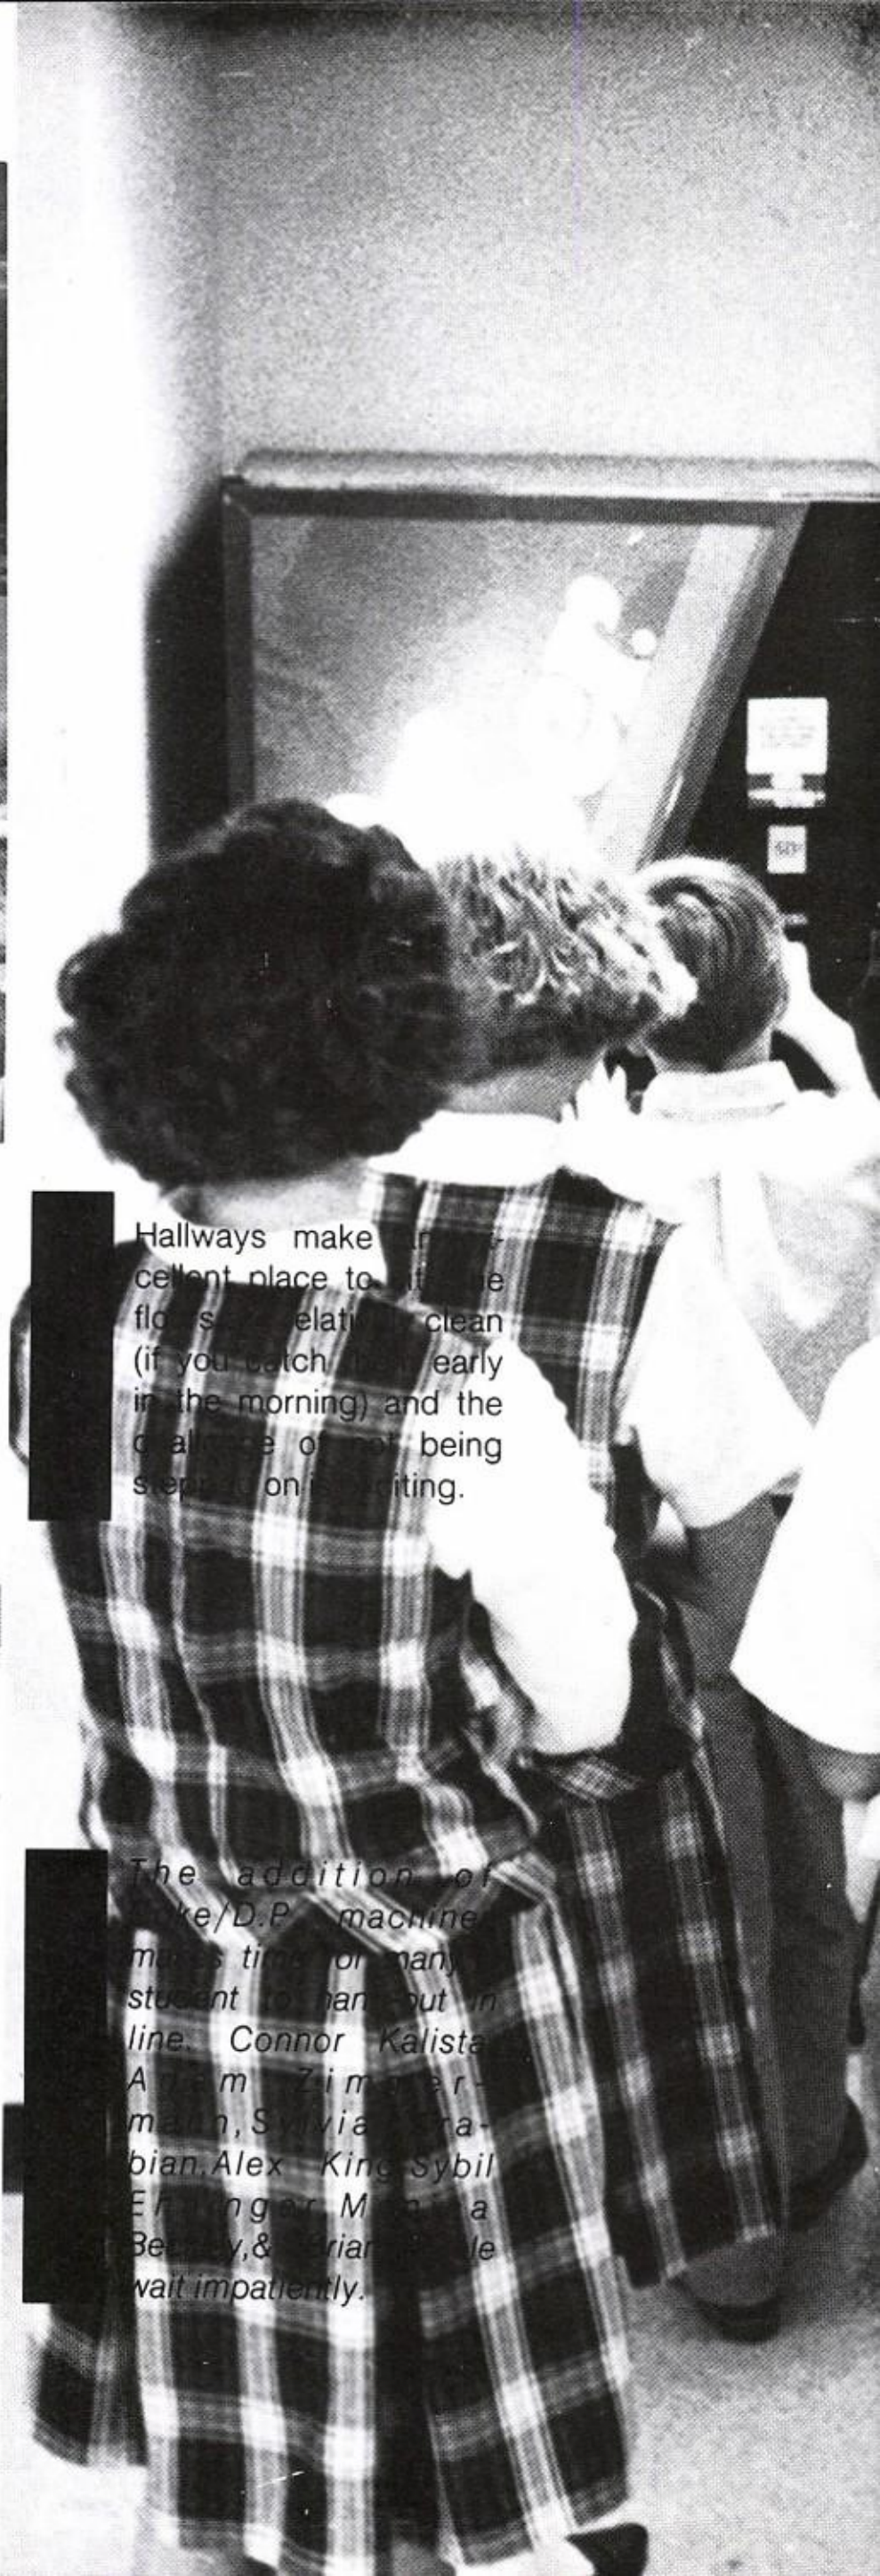

Julia Parmelee, Allicia Raper & Stacy McKay hangin' around the playground equipment. Pre-Kindergartener, Will Thurmond gathers his thoughts.

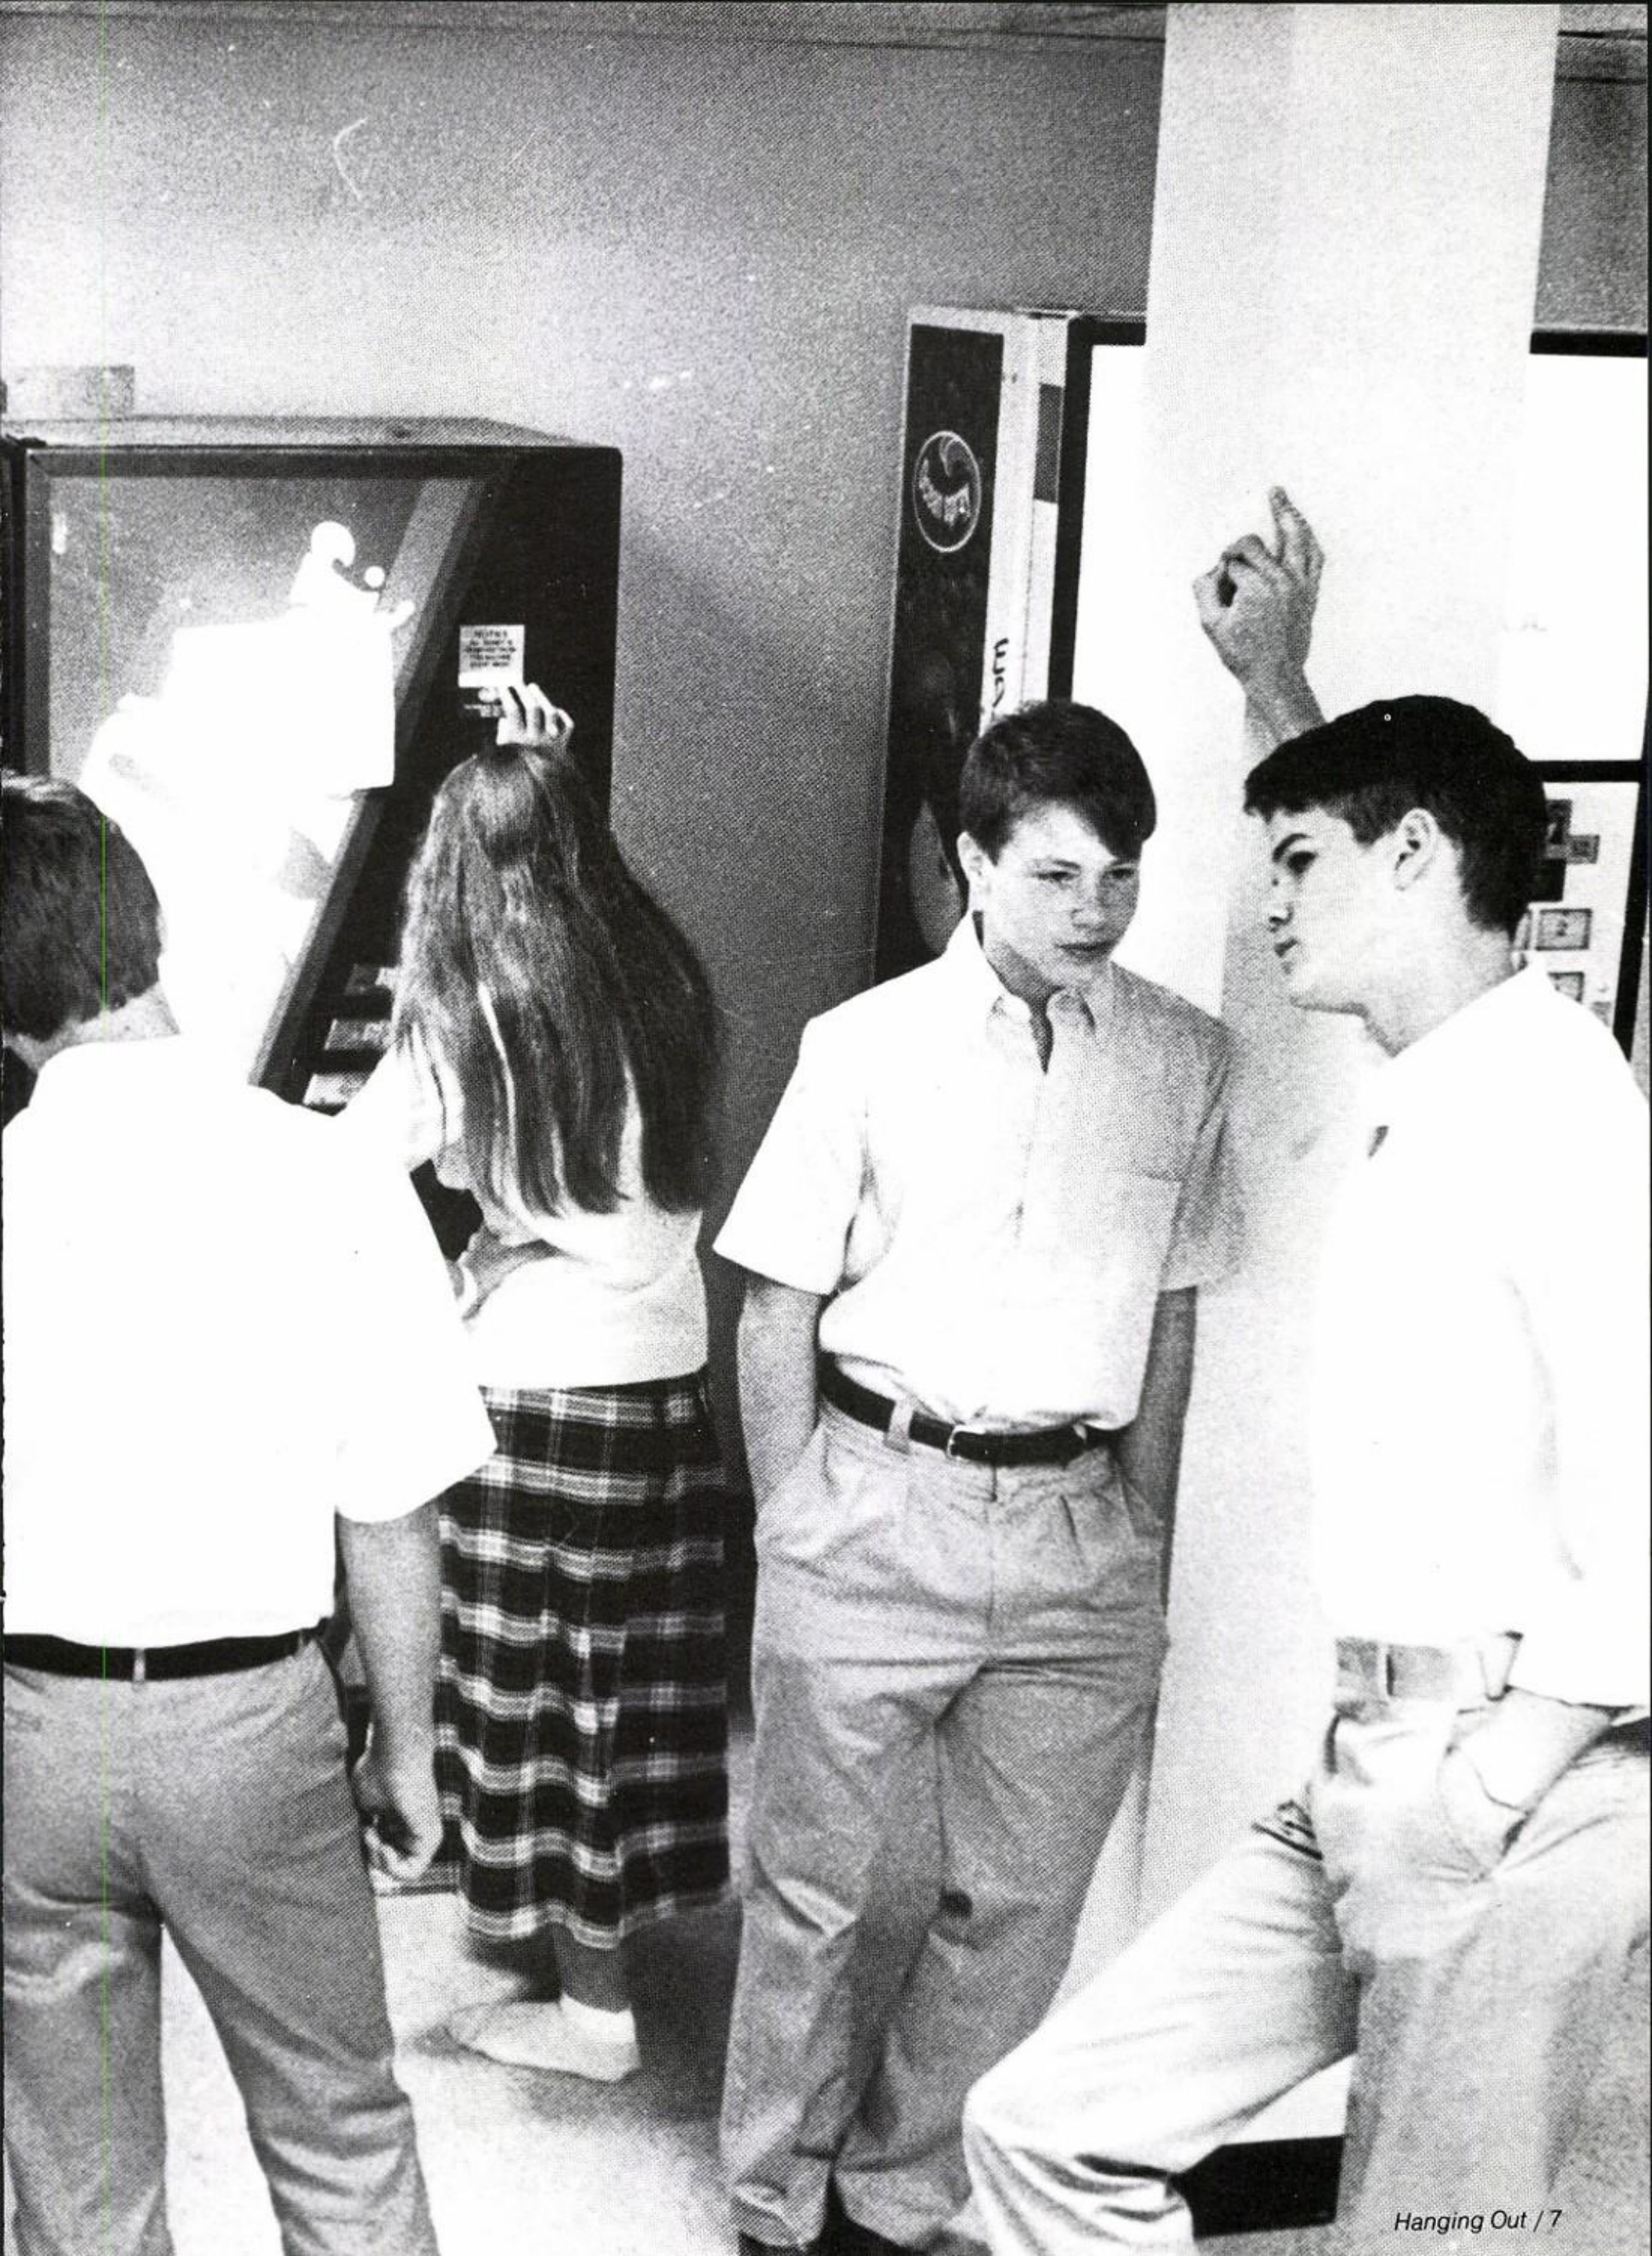

Julie Hetherington and Blair Jackson really enjoy the slide. The playground is a popular hangout for all ages.

Hallways make an excellent place to sit. The floors are relatively clean (if you catch them early in the morning) and the challenge of not being stepped on is exciting.

The addition of the D.P. machine makes time for many student to hang out in line. Connor Kalista, Annem Zimmerman, Sylvia Arabian, Alex King, Sybil Ervinger, Miaa Beatty, & Brian... wait impatiently.

REMEMBERING 1987 IN STYLE

Julia Parmelee, in a bandana bow, solves an Algebra problem.

Kelly Marino along with others never goes anywhere without her pound puppy.

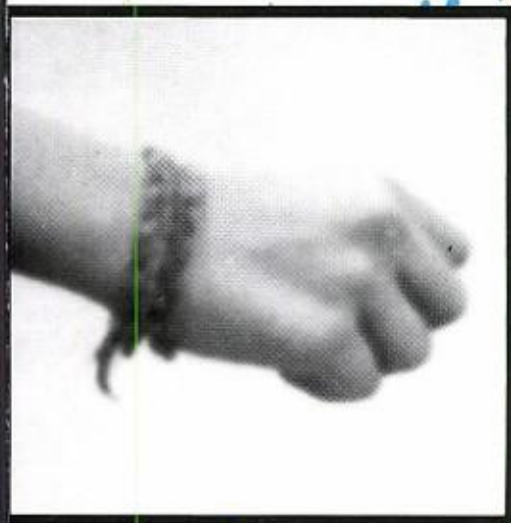

Casey Shaw also seems to spend a great deal of time with his Lb. Puppy.

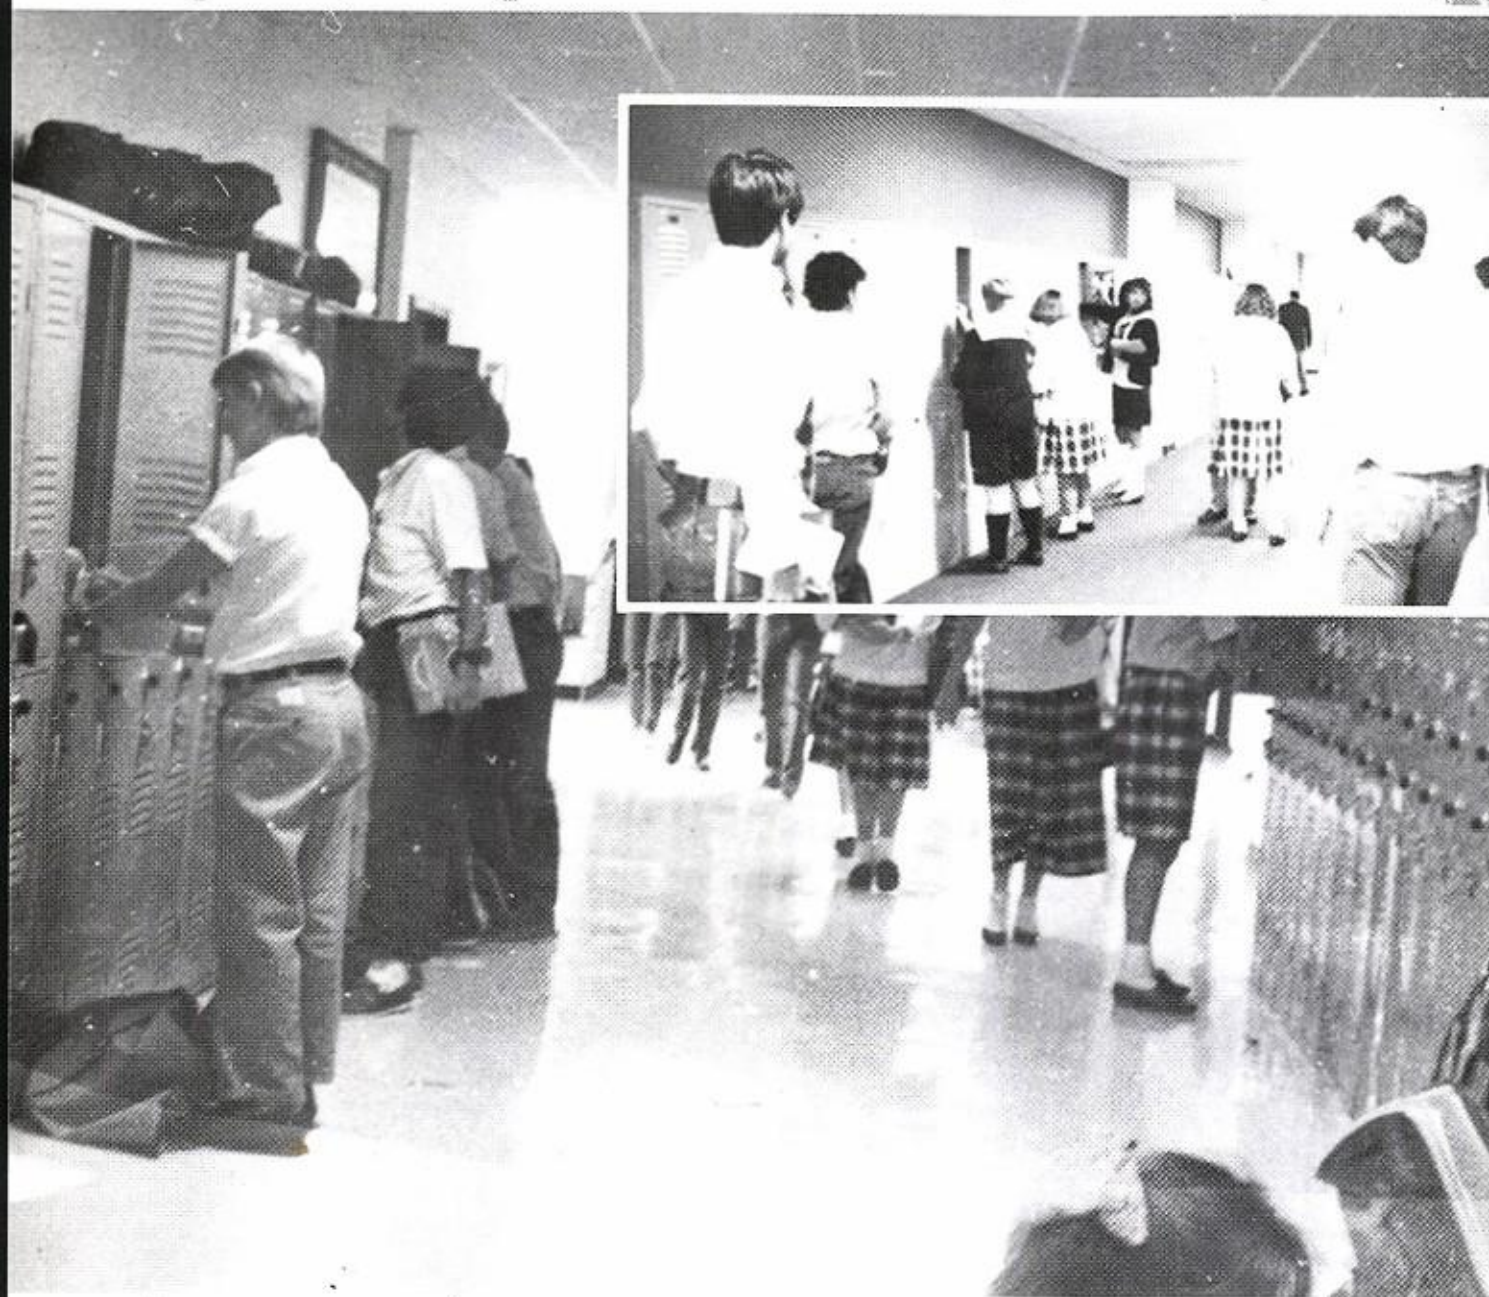

Socks are a bigger deal in life than you might think. As you can see, those argyles just line right up for our cameras. Girls go for the anklets in fancy mode (when they can get away with it).

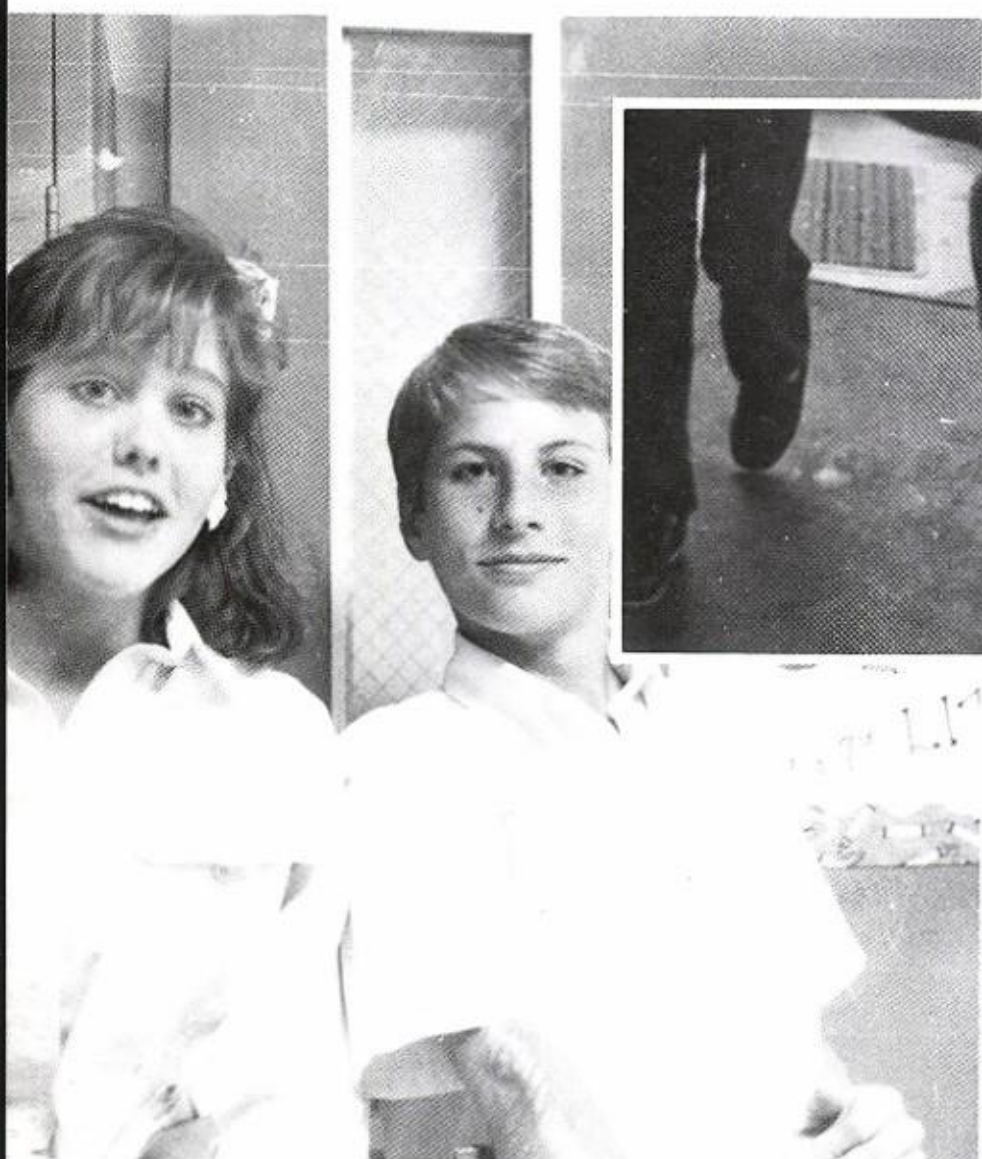

JUST THINK: now where would we be without: David Letterman, bandana hair bows, GUESS?, mimes, Zorlac, silver jewelry and those handy soap pumpers in nice restaurants. ALL RIGHT we can exclude mime. But anyway, all things mentioned are as American as Ronnie Reagan. Gentlemen wearing those crafty little woven bracelets, kids (and parents, too) watching Pee Wee Herman's Saturday morning show, and argyle socks all helped to elude us from those "clever" yellow signs people placed in the back of their car windows and the fact that SOME people thought bowling was a novel and awesome sport in 1987.

In the High School hallway, folks meet to greet early in the morning before chapel.

Jennifer Chambers & Matt Johnson stand in the hallway of the Middle School for a quick pose outside Mrs. Jones' room.

... AHHH yes, how we remember the halls. I muse at the thought of watching a dignified human crawling, hands and knees, down the hall while his only writing utensil is being hurled at great velocity past Mr. Deane's room.

The most famous thing of the halls is the speech volume of some humans. WHO failed WHAT? You got D-Hall, too? Can I borrow (in hall talk 'borrow' is the same thing as C-O-P-Y) your notes?

Jennifer Stevens and Trapper Keeper emerge from her locker.

Philip Thompson & Ellen Reynolds descend the Pre-Elementary School stairs carefully before school starts.

The mall is the social meeting place of the Elementary School. Many people go there to escape the rain, wade through the puddles created by the rain, or to await a friend or even a (tisk tisk) tardy teacher.

Freetime, as I see it can be best described in an equation: 24 hours in the day minus 7 hours of sleep, minus 9 hours for school and preparation of school minus 2 hours for homework minus 3 hours of punishment and cleaning. This leaves you with 3 hours of N.B.C.

Academics

Reasons To Read On Venturing Into The Past

Where the world of reality mixes with the world of fantasy, the bonds of Literature grab each student who is an avid reader. Most All Saints' students we talked to really enjoy reading. One of the reasons why: Mrs. Baker makes the library such a nice place to visit, everyone associates reading with a peaceful and relaxing activity. The High School students, yearning for more books in their resource center, often borrow books from their instructors to get in a little extra reading.

Can You Tell An English Book By It's Cover?

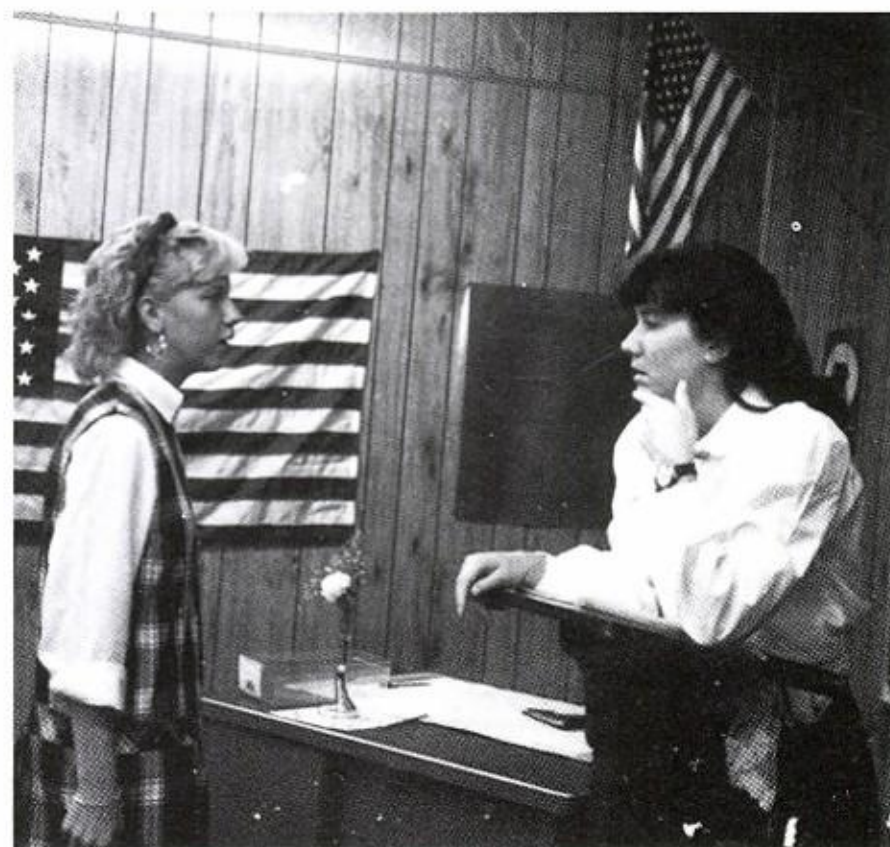

▲ Alison Reese and Kelly Kerr listen intently in the new reading groups for First Graders. Melissa Paul in English class has her homework ready for class today. ◀

► Mrs. Shaw, the new High School English instructor is poised for all occasions. ►► Mrs. Mc Coy helps Greg Wood and Beth Weinman in their attempts at reading from the Lippincott Series at the Pre-Elementary level.

... Remember When ...

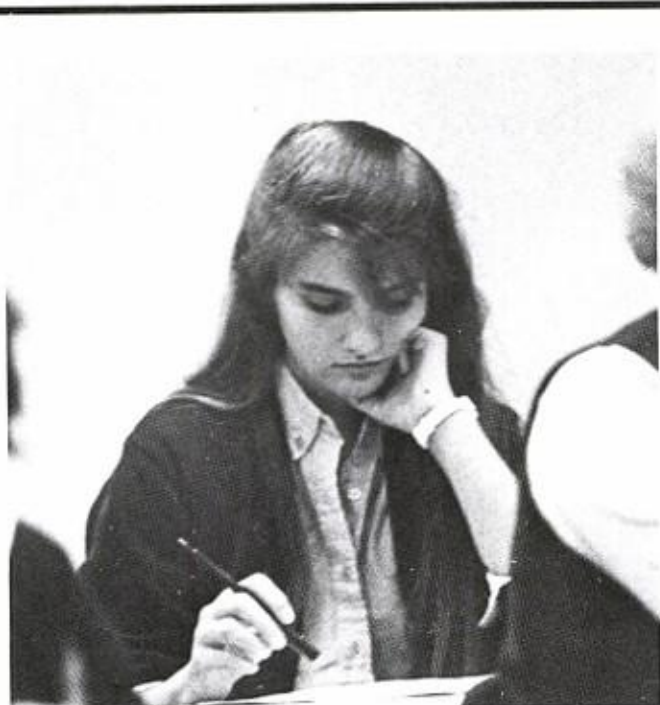

▲ Courtney Clay and Ms. Martin discuss details. ◀ Blair Jackson workin' hard, and ◀▼ Mr. Deane hides his last twinkie of the day.

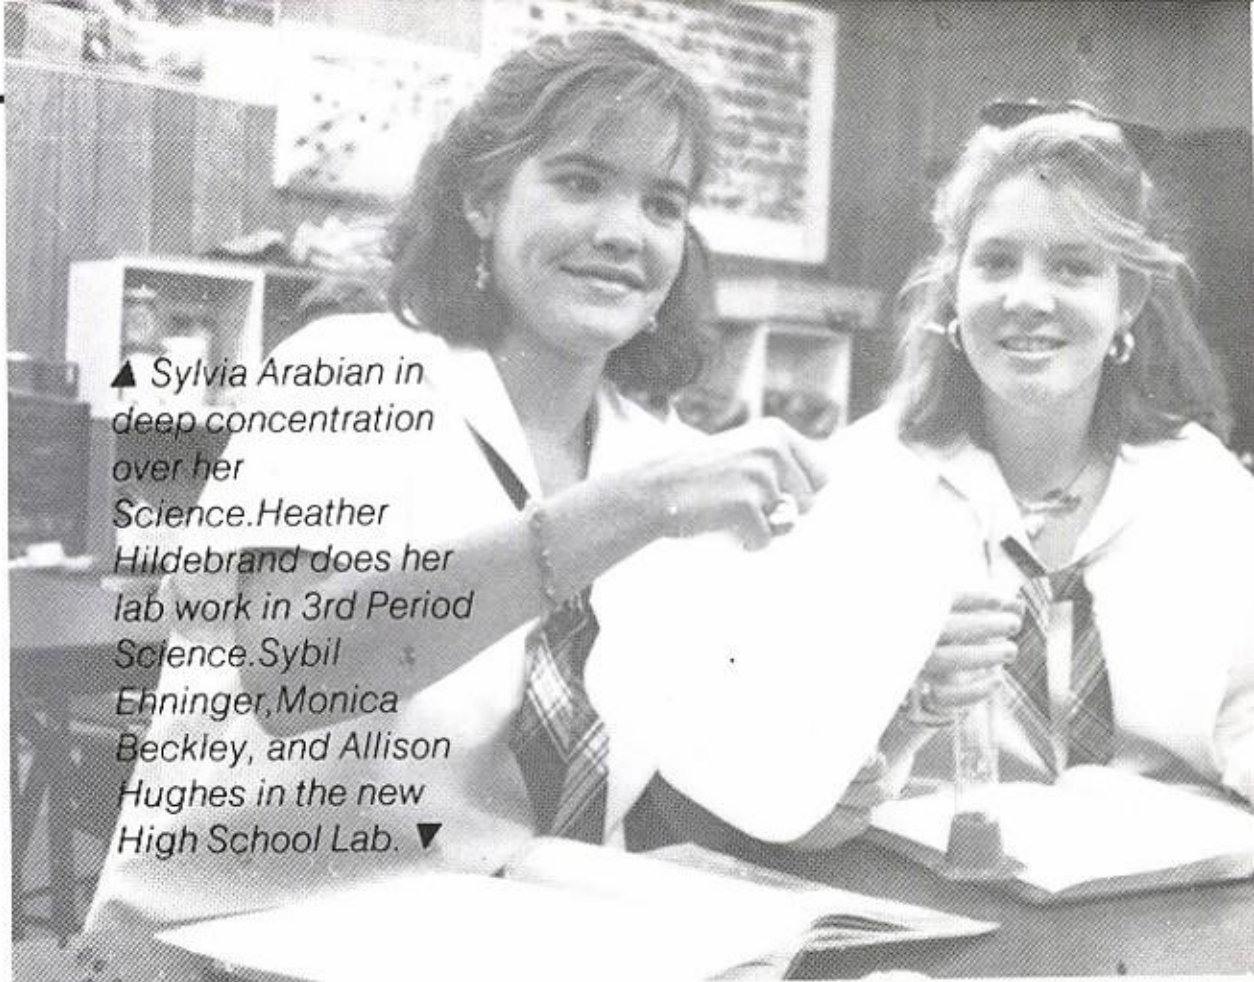

What can I say about Mr. Deane and his American History and Geography courses? You know with a teacher of this caliber you will never be bored. You must always be on your toes for fear of very UNEXPECTED pop tests. Miss Martin teaches the Texas History course for the seventh grade. Now I don't know about you, but Texas History is essential to life to realize how much better we are.

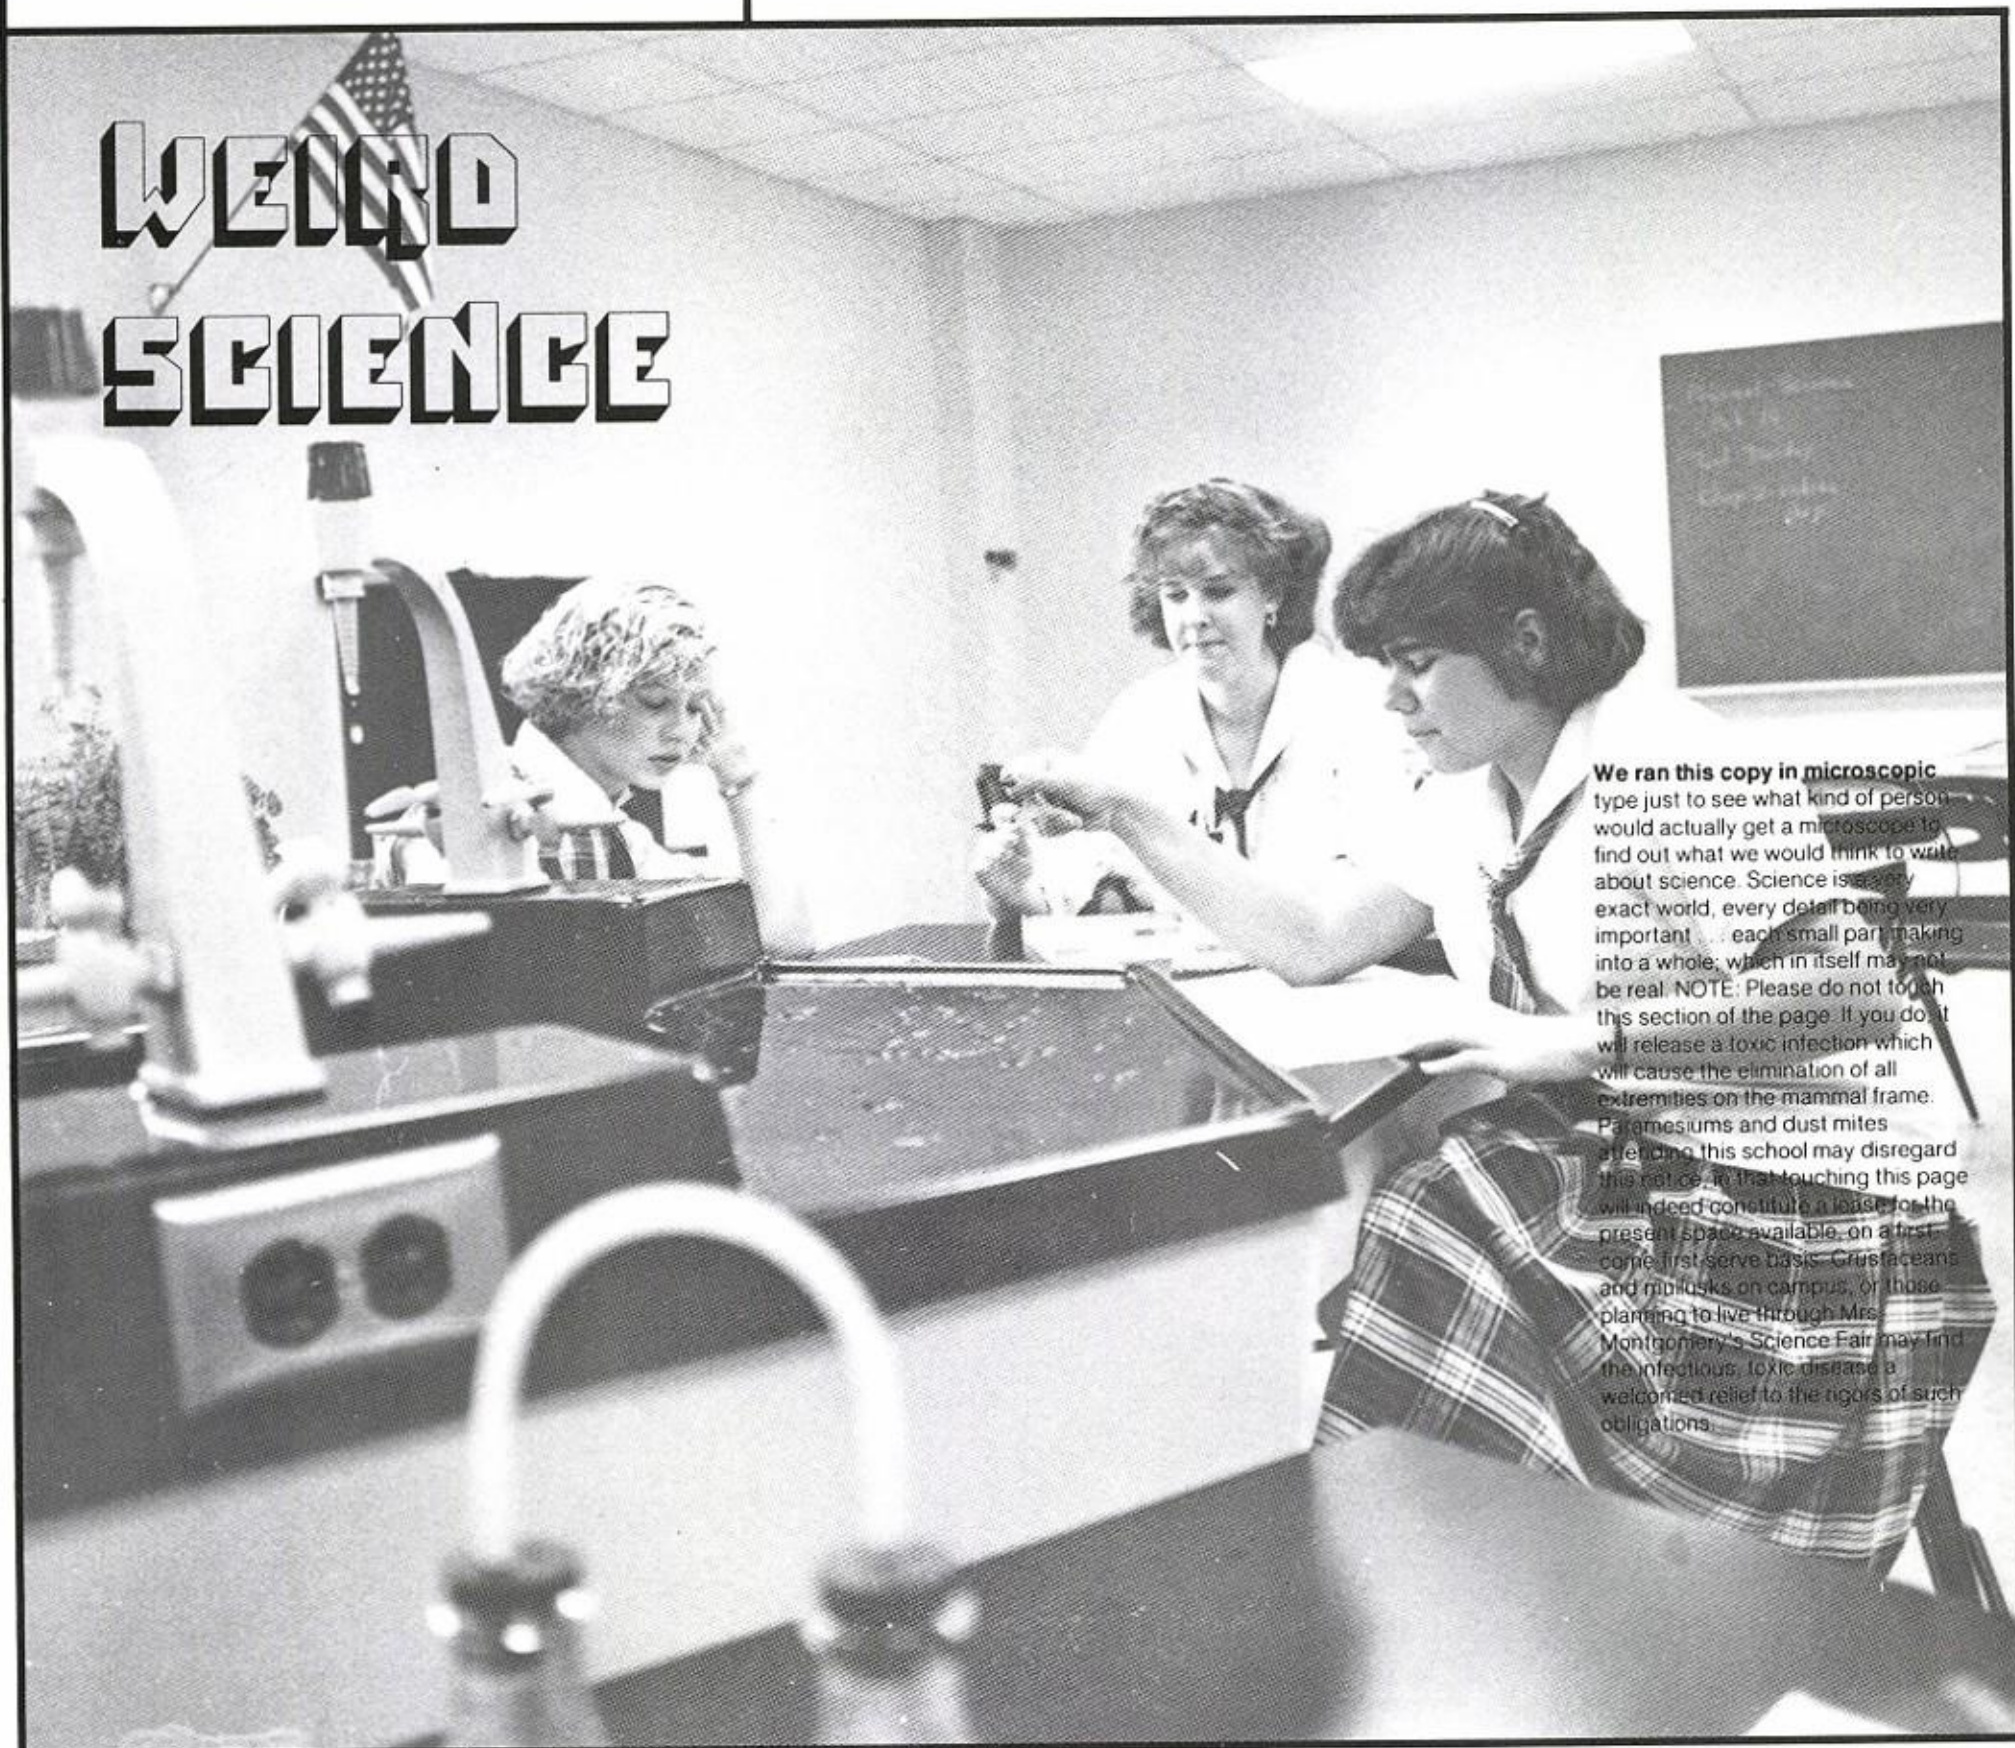

Not many people know why the sixth graders even take South American Geography. I mean, how many of us are going to move to South America? Well, first of all, Mr. Deane likes it (believe it or not, he use to live there). Second, it takes up the whole year in History . . . and we just say, "Live and Let Live" . . . and we don't complain.

▲ Sylvia Arabian in deep concentration over her Science. Heather Hildebrand does her lab work in 3rd Period Science. Sybil Ehninger, Monica Beckley, and Allison Hughes in the new High School Lab. ▼

WEIRD SCIENCE

We ran this copy in microscopic type just to see what kind of person would actually get a microscope to find out what we would think to write about science. Science is a very exact world, every detail being very important... each small part making into a whole; which in itself may not be real. NOTE: Please do not touch this section of the page. If you do, it will release a toxic infection which will cause the elimination of all extremities on the mammal frame. Paramesiums and dust mites attending this school may disregard this notice, in that touching this page will indeed constitute a lease for the present space available, on a first-come, first-serve basis. Crustaceans and mollusks on campus, or those planning to live through Mrs. Montgomery's Science Fair may find the infectious, toxic disease a welcomed relief to the rigors of such obligations.

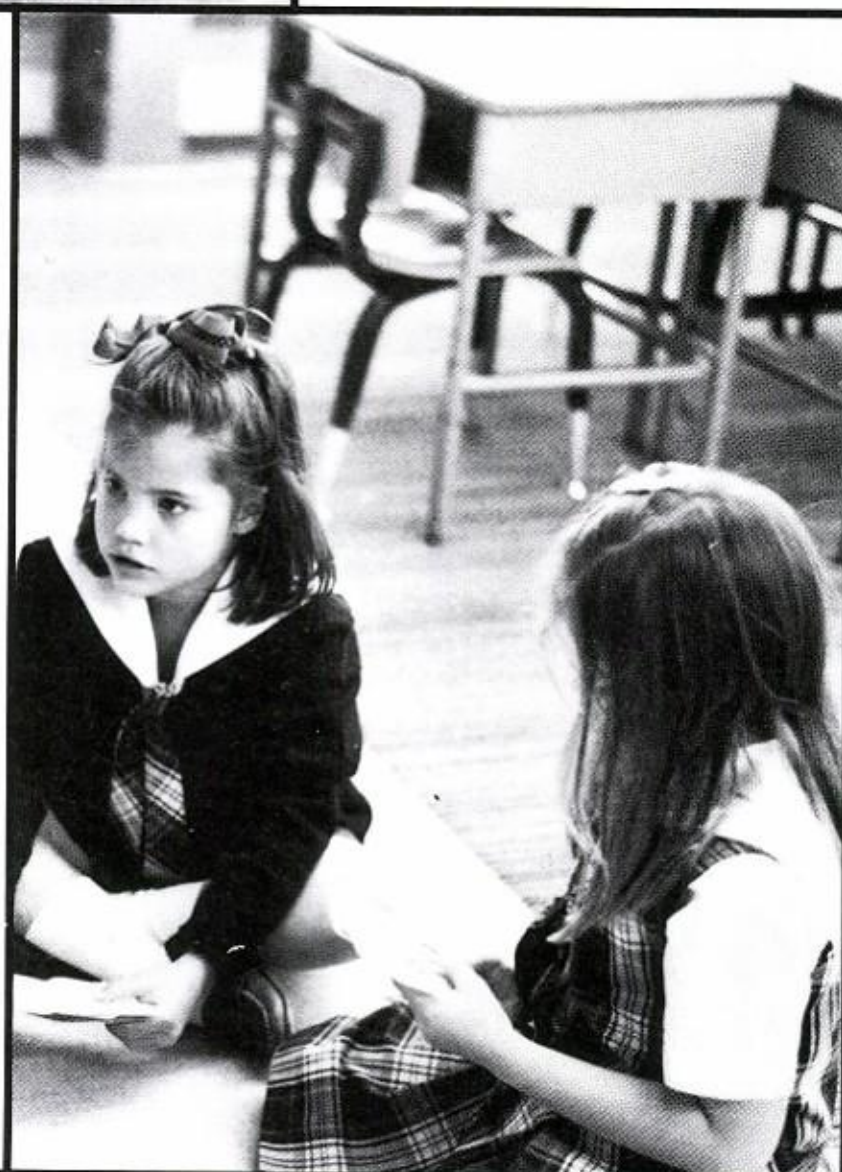

MATH- COUNT ... 1.2.3

In Math class, whether in Pre-Elementary School or High School, a great amount of listening and concentration is required. Emily Stow is quick with the answer in class.

Completely abstract, totally foreign, a language to be learned; math is a subject all must take, most will learn to apply, and many will even like. The surge of video games in the last ten years has made organization of sets and patterns a vital part of a student's day. Geometry even comes up in art on occasion. So you see, just when you thought: Why am I learning all this math, some fool copywriter found an excuse.

COMPUTER LIFELINE Compliments

... the work load of many students. The Elementary classrooms, stocked with a Tandy computer, introduces us to literacy at early ages around here. By Middle School, with Mrs. Meyers and her collection of TRS-80's, the students are ready for some serious programming and game playing. In High School, the Yearbook staffers are aware of the fuller capabilities and limitations of the keyboard operator ... but even those computer terminals are used for many an English assignment early in the morning.

Here I am at my computer typing this very minute. This is about the computer. The computer I am typing on is seen all alone for a brief moment while the picture to your left was taken. I've never seen it empty since. In fact, the most heavily used computer on campus is the one in the Yearbook room itself. Without the computer age, where would we be? Well, we would go to sleep at night without seeing a blue screen with flashing bleeps; we'd be typing and using gallons of liquid paper.

The computer, talked about as a novel and new approach to life three years ago is so much apart of daily existence that it is hard to believe that ANYONE doesn't know how to use one. I mean, to work at Safeway you have to be ready to program and alter a computer to change from McIntosh (no pun intended) to Granny Smith apples.

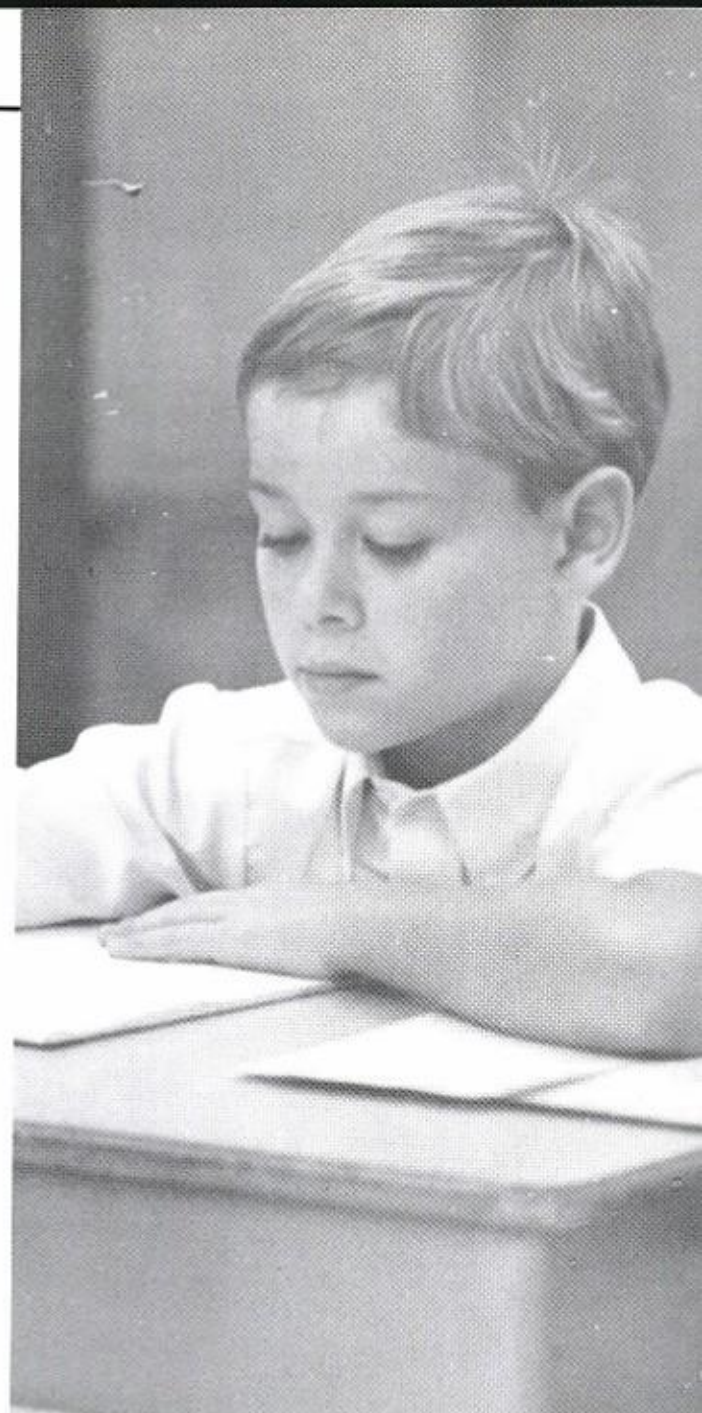

Running a color computer in Elementary school, the ability to bone up on Math skills and reading speed is helped, along with an occasional escape from the rigors of regular classroom work. The computer can add to a social activity as well. Games played on the computer can help increase motor skills and eye/hand coordination (doesn't that sound like a good line to tell your parents, right before you ask for a new IMB-PC for next Christmas?).

Able Learners Program

"5...4...3...2...1
... Blast off!", says Casey Shaw. In the ALPS room, rocket launches, balloon rides, and photo developing are not uncommon. In this class, kids are allowed to do projects on topics of their choice. In the 5th grade they study knights in shining armor, fair maidens in distress, and all other aspects of medieval life. Problem solving and logic skills are also stressed through the use of Harry Stottlemeir's Adventures. Soon, all students learn that the grass is always greener under the garden robe.

There has been a question around here that no one seems to know the answer to except Mrs. Arabian. "What is the ALPS program, anyway?"

"ALPS, stands for, ummm, Able Learners Program! It's for those who have a yearnin' for learnin'."

All Saints' Alternatives

Education program is new this year. It is fashioned after the Montessori Philosophy, geared for those very special students who are highly self-motivated and easily targeted to complete personal academic and creative goals. The A.S.A. program, although not for all children, is a very special 'diamond' in the treasury of All Saints' School.

A.S.A.

► Mrs. Whitehouse, instructor for the A.S.A. program, gives some basic guidelines for the ball to roll on some new writing projects. ▼ Patrick King, Devin Pugh, and Paul David Tudor in their thinking mode.

RADICALLY READING

Mrs. Bigley is reaching for new heights in literature. Can you tell what's wrong with that picture? Maggie Moore is studying something in the library. Many people find the library a wonderful place to hang out. It's peaceful and has an atmosphere of tranquillity which is the best for whatever you wish to do.

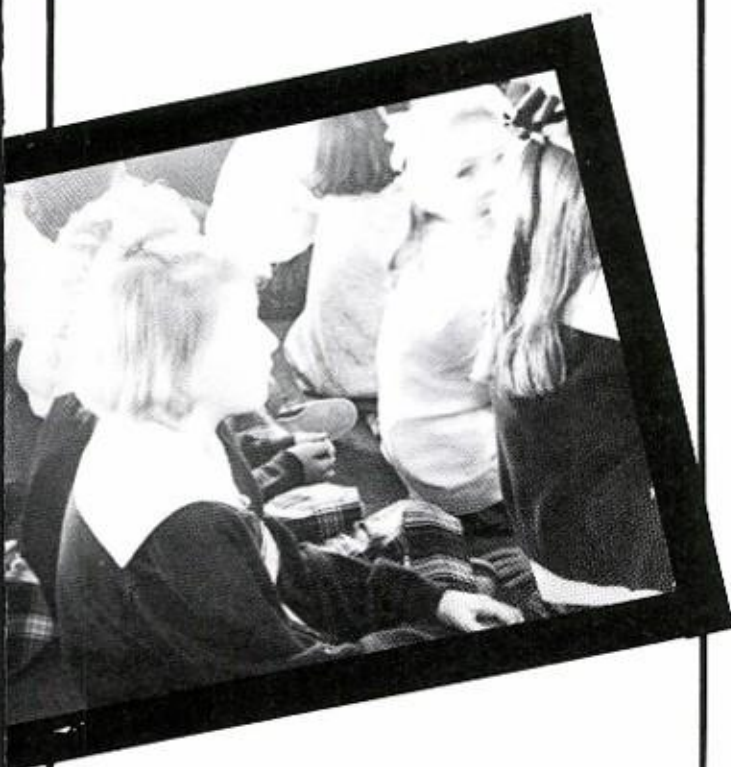

The library at our school is used for more than just the storage of books. It is also used as a nurse's station for all those people with headaches, the "sickies", nose bleeds, cuts, bruises, and all other aches and pains. Teachers also use it for a place to hang out and grade papers and for students it's a place to find all the book report books. Preschoolers think of it as a "Mystery of the Big School". They see the story teller and other things there when they come to visit. First graders have their story time once a week and other grades use it to show movies.

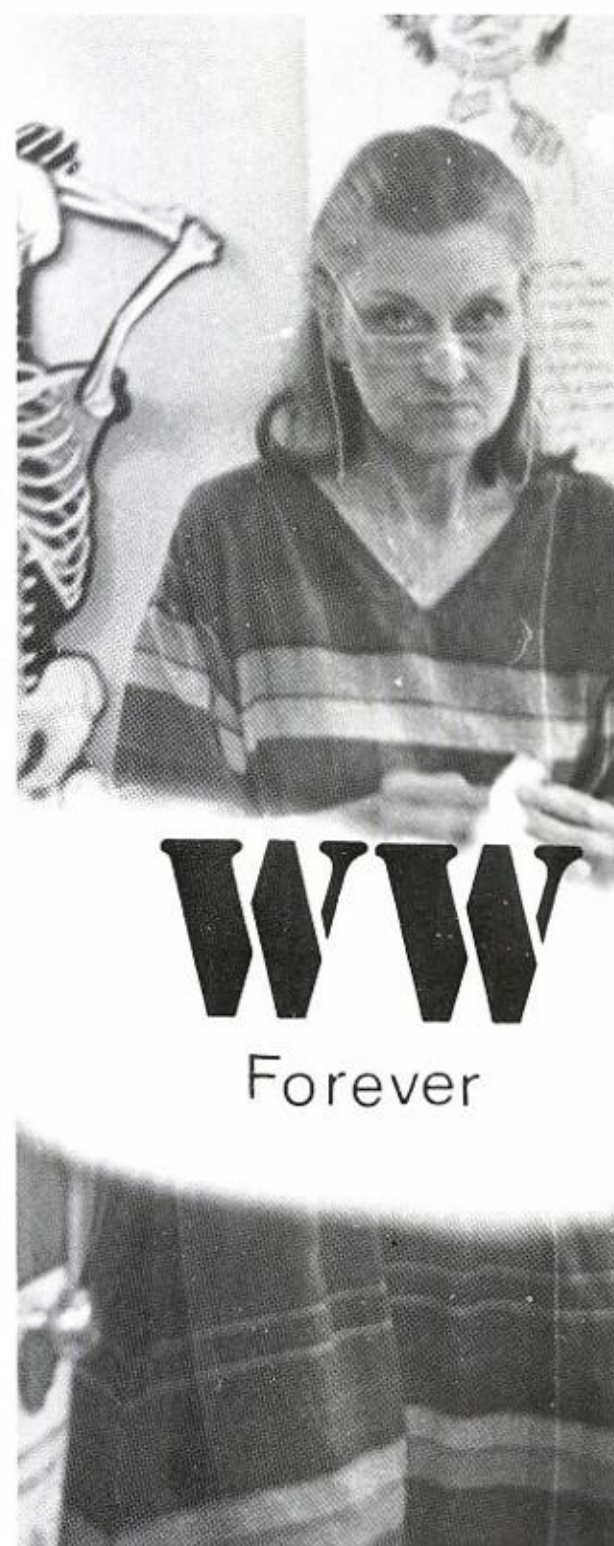

Mrs. Baker is always trying to make the library a comfortable place for the students who enjoy to read and all the others as well. She has art shows, guest authors, meetings, "Scarbooker Faire", medical records, and just about everything else. She assists all students looking for all those authors whose names we can't pronounce and a lot that we can. To some students the library is a mystery because the books are impossible to find, but after the computerized card file is done that will no longer be a problem. Mrs. Baker keeps getting more books and assistants are trying to file all the new ones and the old ones as well. Let's hope that the collection of new as well as old books continues to grow.

News, Books, Magazines, and Literature

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Bigley are trying to decide on the book report lists, while Mrs. Baker takes care of the sick person who's come to visit the infirmary.

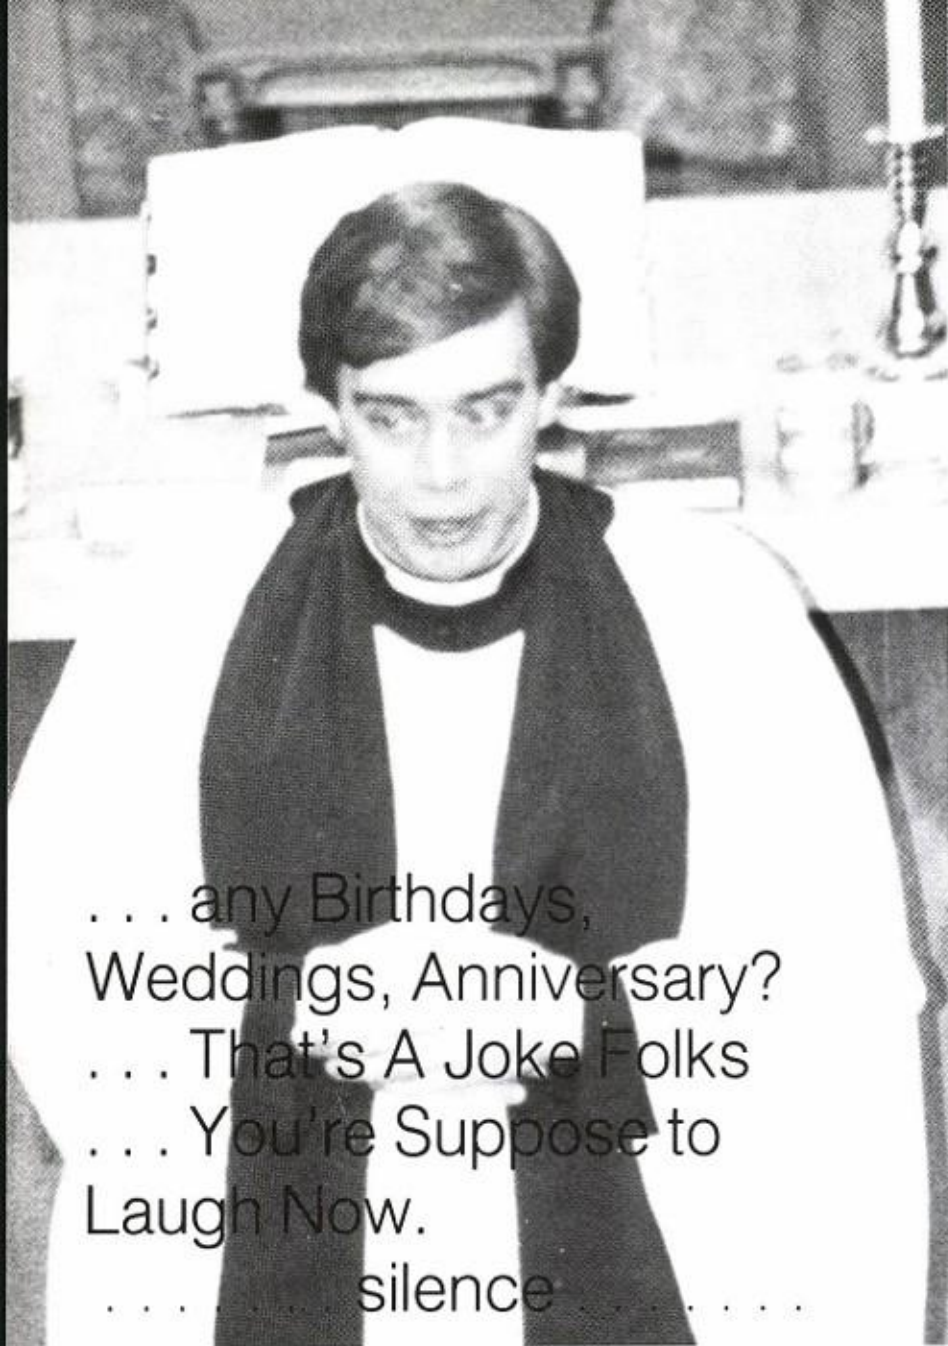

Our library is a growing thing. We are building a rare book collection. In the High School, the new Resource Center will one day be as full of books as the present library. We have Guest authors and storytellers on a regular basis. When Jose Aruego came last October, the Preschool even came over to the big campus to see him.

Forever

Classes use the library as a movie theatre as well as a source for books. This class could be watching anything from NATURE to a treat of "Pee Wee's Great Adventures."

... any Birthdays,

... That's A Joke Folks
... You're Suppose to Laugh Now.
... silence ...

You can see a gleam in Father Bob's eyes as he throws
another snapping turtles joke into the congregation.
... they bite ...

My first question was: How do you know when you're called to be a priest —

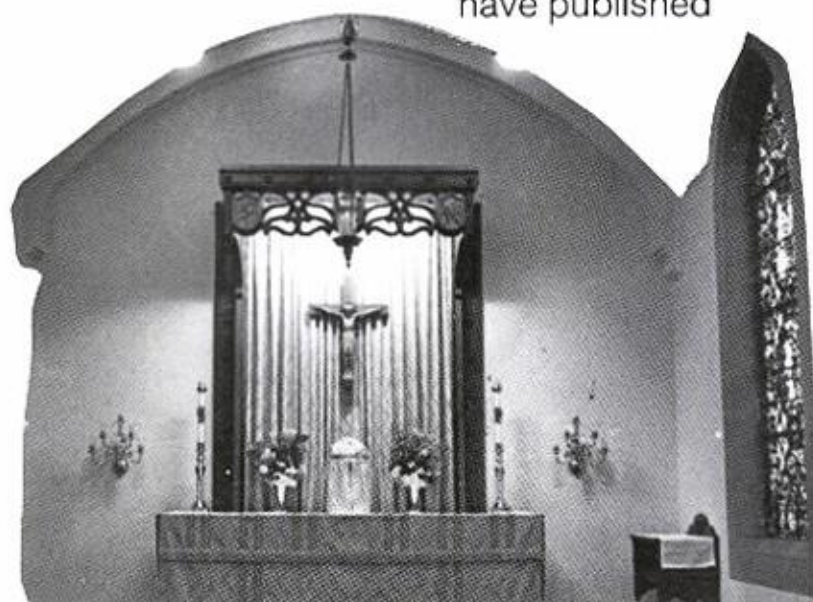

"Well, one feels from the start that one should do work for the church. It's just that sometimes you don't want to listen to what God is telling you," Father Bob answered. At first Father thought he wanted to be an eye doctor. He knew he had a vision, but he hadn't quite understood, yet. Next Father Bob heard Music In The Air, and changed his college major to music. Perhaps the music he was really hearing was from heaven . . . because finally, after collecting a few degrees, Father Bob went on to seminary. Today . . . BEHOLD . . . A CHAPLAIN IS BORN!

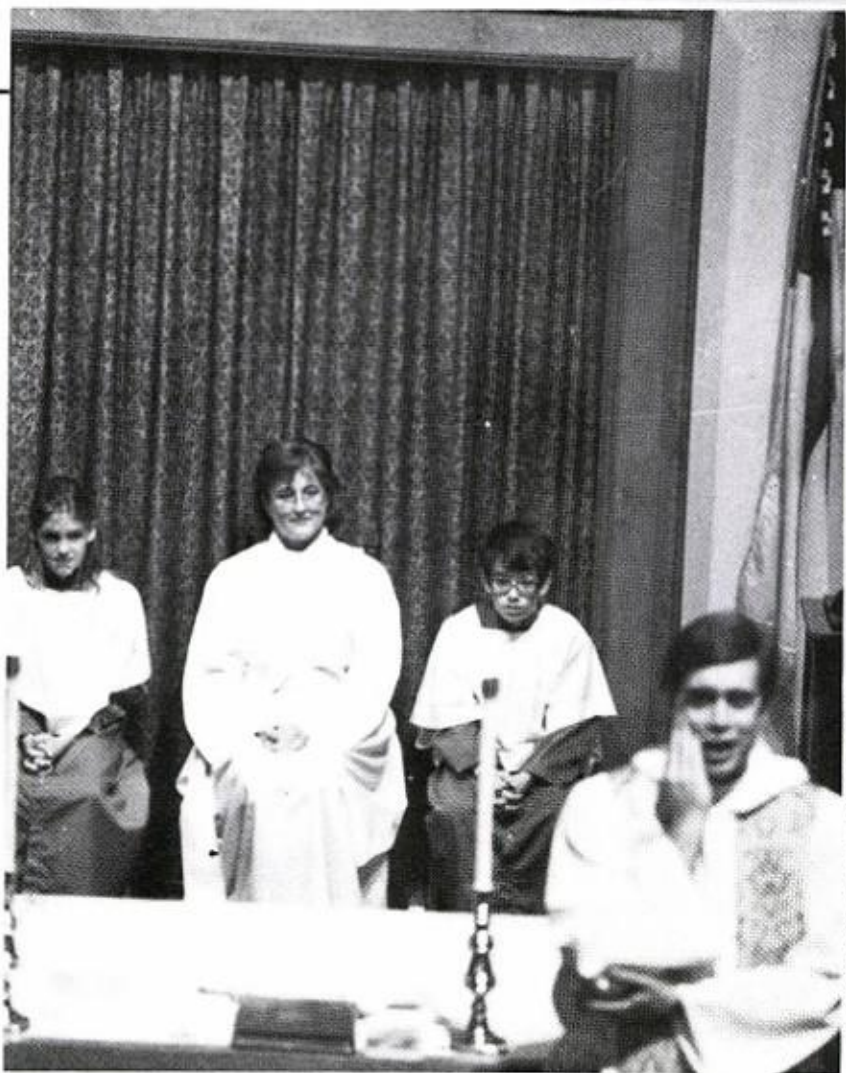

Father Bob attended a seminary school in California and graduated in 1985. He was now ready for his career as a priest. Father Bob knew he wanted to be a teacher, and in 1984 he was placed at All Saints' to do an internship. After Father Worrell retired he was asked to take the job. He smiles as he says, "It was the toughest decision I ever made."

The main idea in Religion is to make the students realize God. If everyone knew about God the world would be a better place.

Next I asked, "But what about Deacon Schmidt?"

She is currently working on another Masters at T.C.U., in Art History. Beyond that, she has some writings she'd like to have published

Most of us (come on and admit it), at one time use to think that whoever performed chapel services was actually GOD. One fine day, as Father Worrell was leaving the chapel, one Pre-schooler asked, "Where's God going now?" The teachers at the Preschool are still laughing about that one.

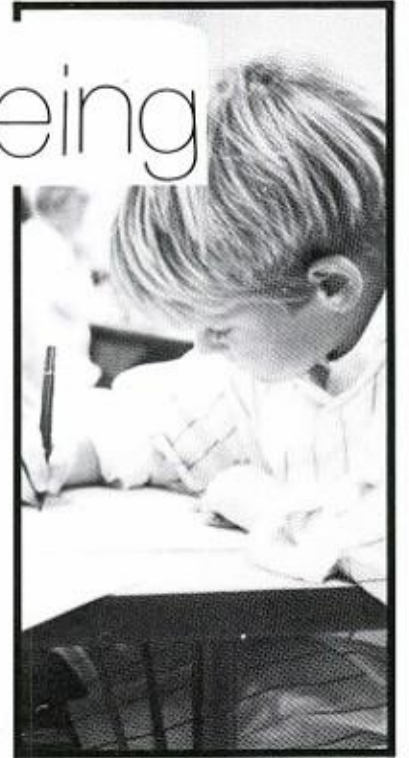

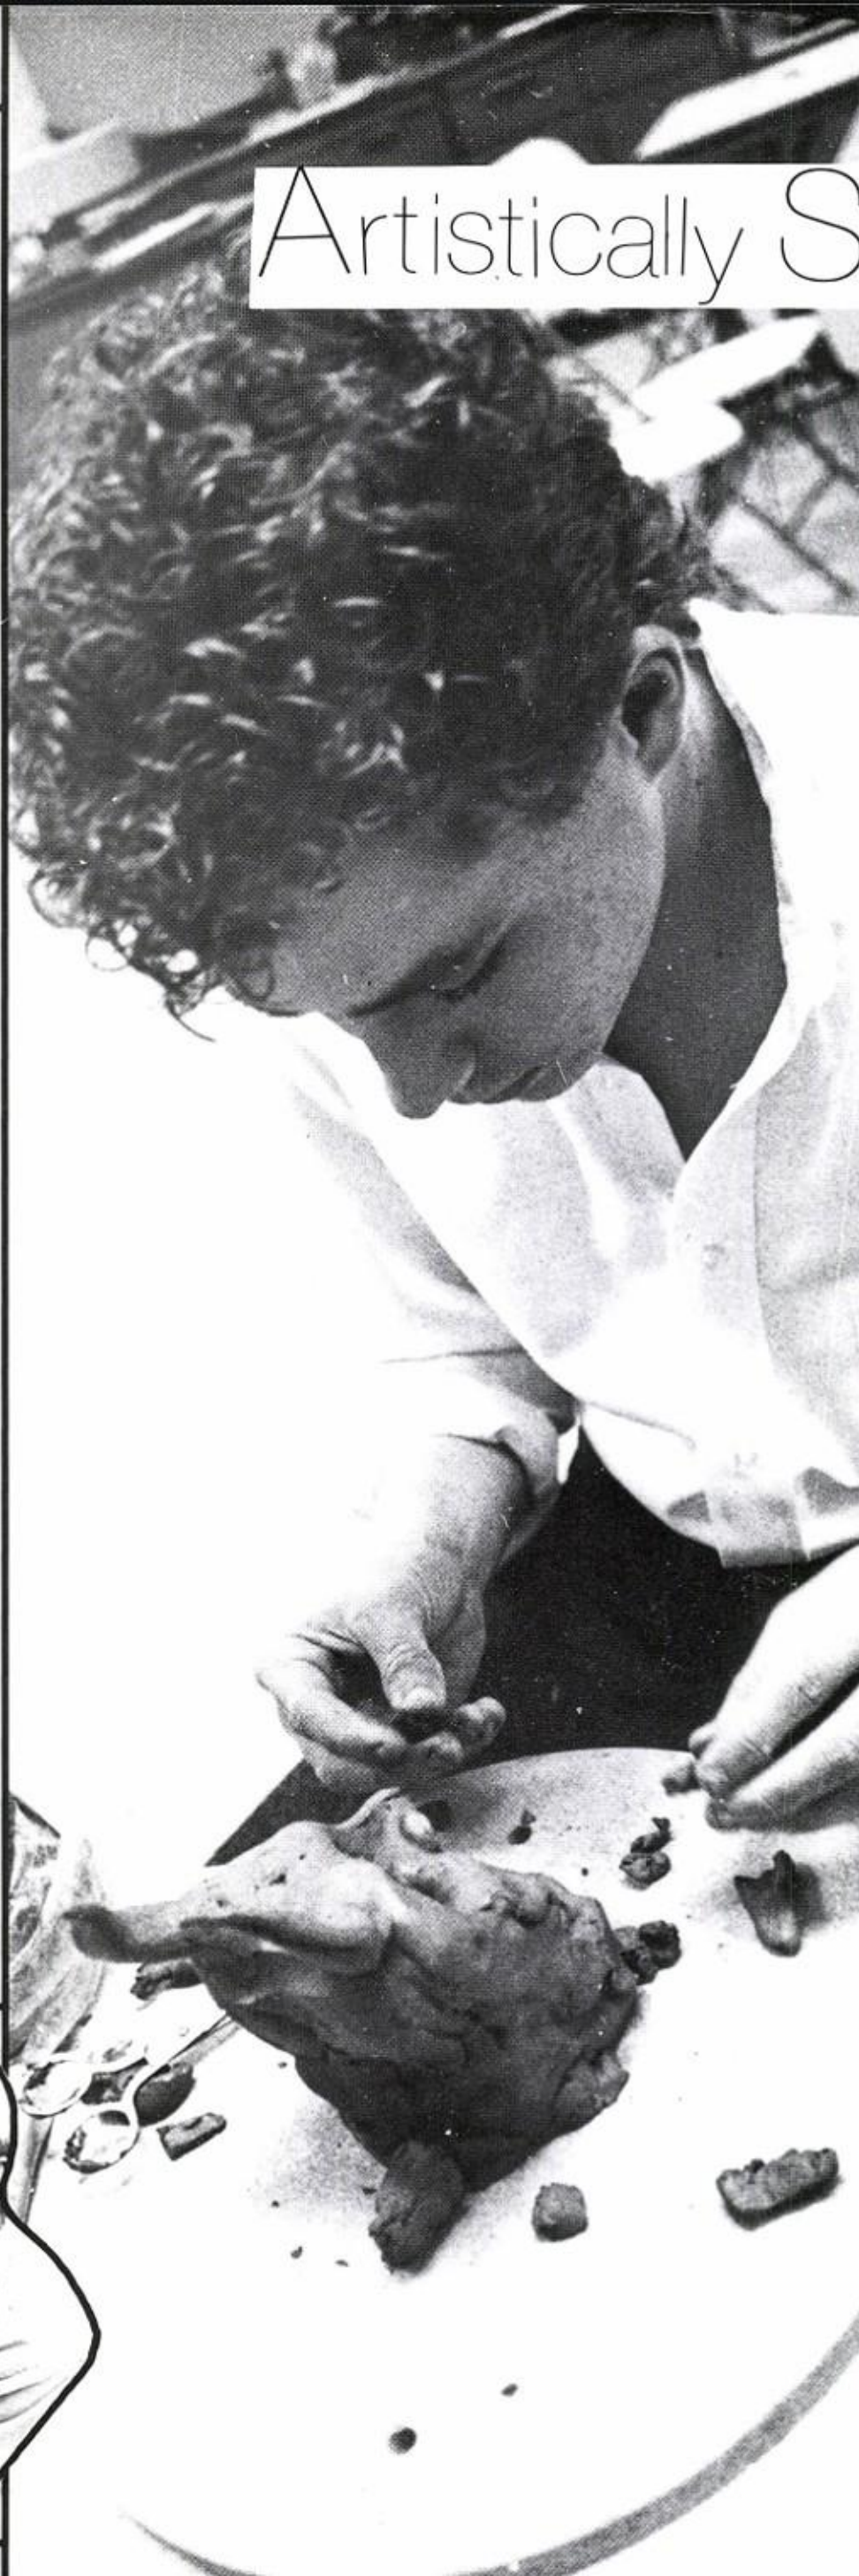

LITURGY IN ACTION

At the Gospel each day, the procession of candles and crucifix wobble and weeble their way towards the center of the chapel so that everyone can feel a part of the WORD as it is read.

Artistically Seeing

Sandi Woolsey is seen painting what very well could be auctioned off as a thirty million dollar pet rock.

David Egerton is seen creating the "Horned Monster." Children in the elementary classes are creating their wildest dreams with a simple pencil and paper.

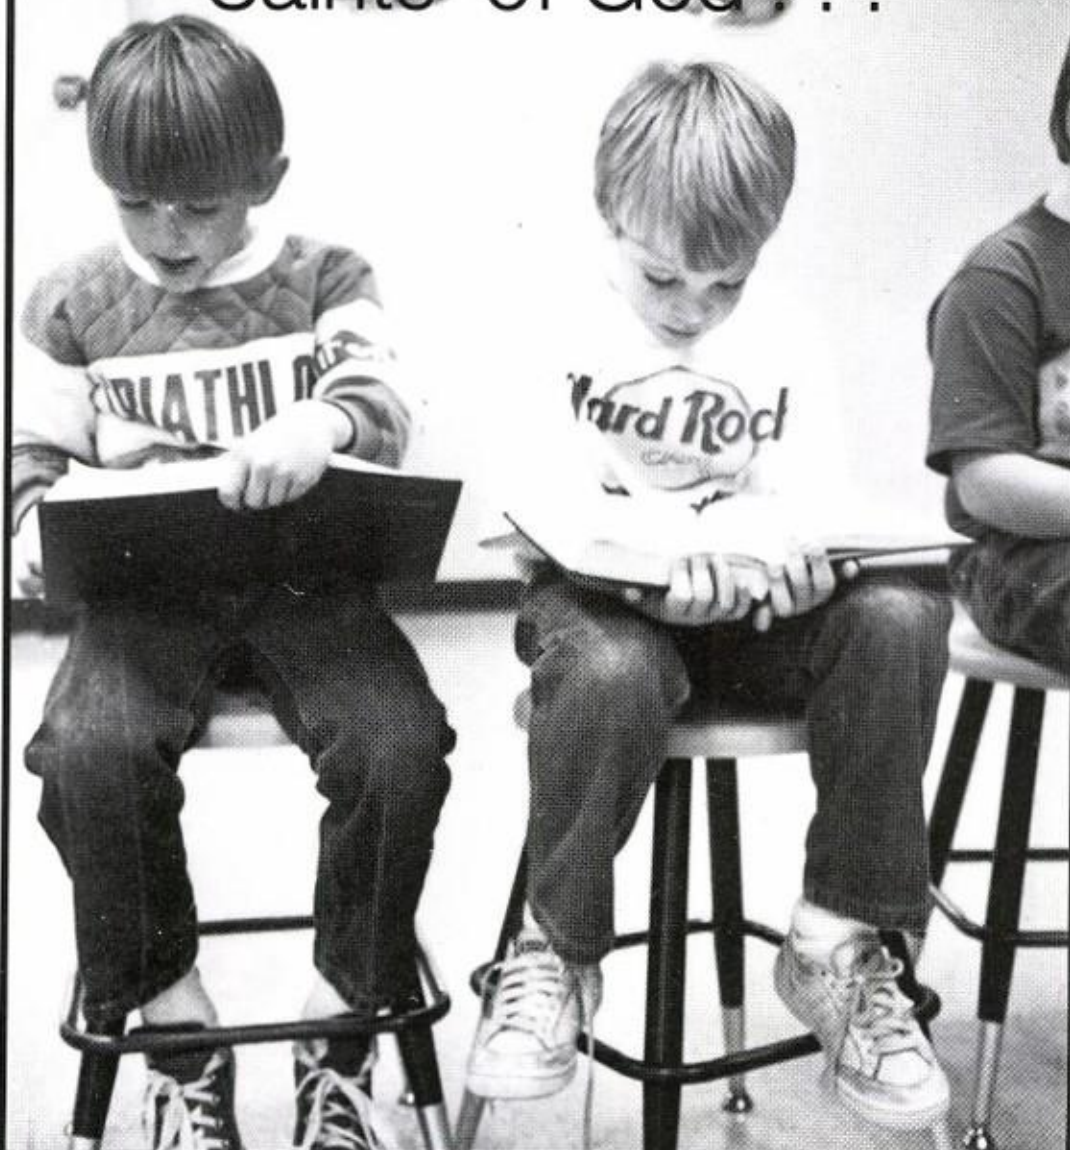

Music Time

Mrs. Vaught's Music class writes compositions in class. Learning music history mixed with theory. Her classes come forth with joyful notes and aspiring songs that may lead us to a new Eddie Van Halen.

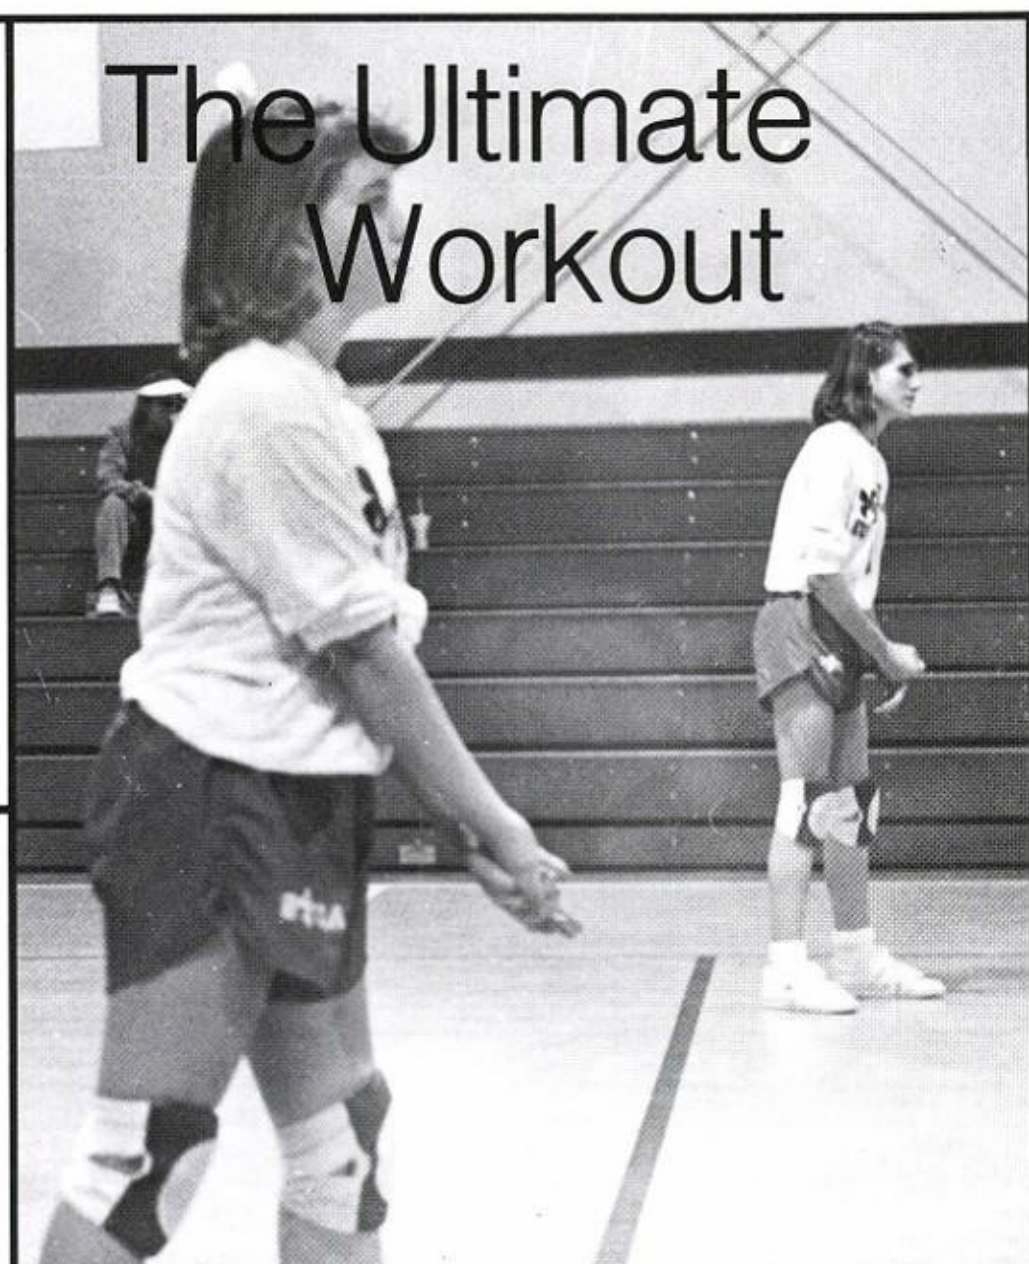

Sing a Song of the Saints' of God . . .

Mrs. Kelloggs' Class sings it out in Music under the direction of Mrs. Sours. From strange and bizzare Halloween songs to new Christian anthems Music class is an adventure in sound.

1. THE MOST DOOR FRAMES WORN DOWN BY PEOPLE HITTING THEM is 85, 74 of which were done totally by Ryan McConnell.

The Foreign Language Game

"Hola" say the kindergarteners. The first graders learn names and more words. The second graders learn still more words. Their vocabulary keeps growing and growing until they get to the point where they can begin to study the conjugations of verbs. And then, when they reach the famous Spanish Peak, they may choose to learn French. Lucky you get four great teachers! From Senora Sohel to Ms. Dodge, foreign language is just a barrel of words!

Teachers Have Uniforms, Too . . . Always There Has Been a Dress-Code For Instructor Attire

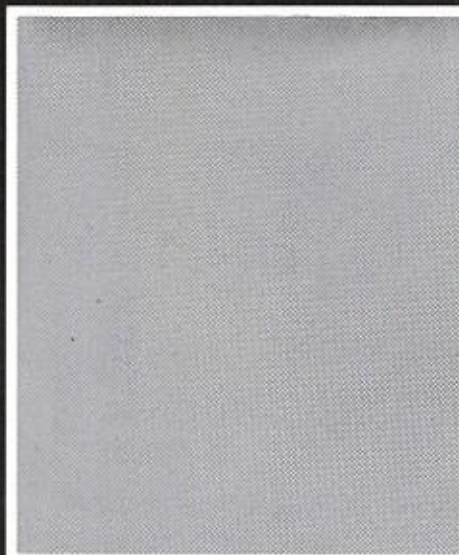

Gentlemen on our campus must wear ties and suits unless they cut grass, polish floors, or blow whistles in P.E.; women must wear hose, "Sunday-type" clothing unless they cut grass, polish floors, or blow whistles in P.E . . . in every role in life there are certain criteria for living. Students are not the only ones with regulations as to their personal freedom each morning when they get up.

Mrs. Whitehurst helps her students willingly through a new concept in reading. All Saints' instructors are blessed with remarkable patients and humor. Greeting each new lesson with freshness and creativity, Mrs. Montgomery ▼ has a brilliant idea for her students working on a text assignment for a soon-to-come science lab. The long awaited dissection labs in science offer many groans and faint-feelings from Middle Schoolers. In preparation for such things, Second Graders make their first bug collection each year. Which is worse: The smell in a second grade classroom during bug collection time, or the smell in science Middle School during eye-ball dissection labs?

Spread Out

"We live on a rather large campus. When a teacher asks me to run an errand here, I look at my watch automatically to see if I can get back to class before the bell rings. It takes five minutes of fast walking to round-trip it from the High School to the Chapel office, two minutes to open my locker, and another 2 minutes to get to class with a certain amount of social contact. This means that to be really ON TIME, one must not run errands ten minutes before class is over."

WHAT A FACULTY

Most people don't realize the REAL sense of family in All Saints'. Mrs. Michels has been at All Saints' for almost 30 years, acting as Pre-School teacher, Sunday School Director, Principal of the Elementary School and now to Director of Schools. If you want some history, ask her. But, within the walls of this same campus, family members of our Founding father, Rev. Canon DeWolfe also teach here. Mrs. Herndon, a long-time instructor here, is a verteran of All Saints'. Her mother, Mrs. Jones, taught school here many years ago and even ran the office for a few years before her daughter began teaching here. In fact, in writing this copy, I realize that I am obviously leaving out many people who have some other direct relationship to our campus and our lives. (Who ever you are, please don't get your feelings hurt . . . this is my own ignorance) Maybe this is why we feel that sense of "Mom and Dad" while at this school.

CHEERLEADERS

With the new school year came new cheerleaders. Eight spirited girls were ready and waiting to pep us all up for the school year, the football games, the basketball games and Grandparents Day. The best place to do this was at the pep rallies, and when I say pep rallies I mean rallies with excitement. Mrs. Poole, the cheerleaders' coach says, "I love it! They are great to work with and I'm very proud of them." Three cheers for Jennifer Chambers-Capt., Lindsey Clinard, Amy Smith, Stephany Bolten, Teresa McKay, Trudy Skiles, Amy Clark, and Lucy Weber, our 1987 cheerleaders.

Hopefully wishing for Cheerleading in her future, Amy Calloway, a fourth grader in Mrs. Craven's class looks anxiously ahead to her Middle School and High School days.

HONORS ART . . .

Honors Art is composed of students who have excelled in art in Lower School. Through the year they take on special projects which are more accelerated to match their level of artistic skills.

Students who were qualified for this year's Honors Art program included Montie Hale, Angie Smith, Krista Nicholson, Haley Matthews, Ann Kincaid, Marcia Brown, Matt Jackson, Nicole Cavazos, Suzi Pinson, Kari Peterson, Devin Pugh, Elizabeth Livingston, Kelly Humble, Anne Loffland, Brooke Ulrickson, Roland Hollis, Eric Maberry, and Kevin Darville.

. . . and Computer Club

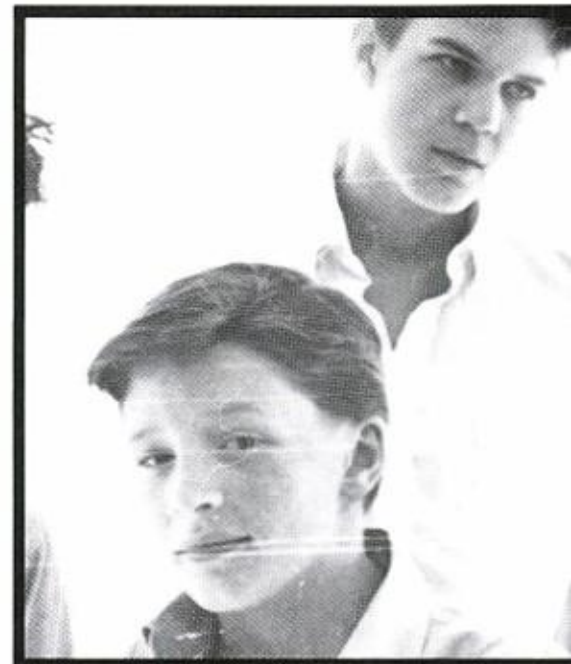

The Computer Club is a group of students united for the purpose of studying TRS-80 computers. Sponsored by Mrs. Meyer, our resident computer whiz. The club meets several times a month to put together programs and learn new things. This year's computer club included: Jennifer Stevens, Kim Stevens, Marti Glasco, Eliot Kerlin, Natalie Chin, Dalena Morse, Hope MacFarlane, Michelle Ogle, Kimberly Madeja, Crystal Freed, Cameron Moates, John Soheli, Maura Williams, Logan Tomlinson, Elizabeth Funk, Jason Krouse, Talia Meyers, Todd Love, Colby Brown, Jennifer Cooke, Melissa Dunagan, Anna Ciraci, Adam Arabian, Marc Cisco, Junaid Ahmad, and Andria Williams.

HIGH SCHOOL GOVERNMENT

This year's student council, as hard as it is to believe, has accomplished a lot, considering the resources that they were given. They started with a budget right down there at zero. Now I believe it is . . . it is much higher now. What is their secret???? They began the program by recycling cans and selling calendars.

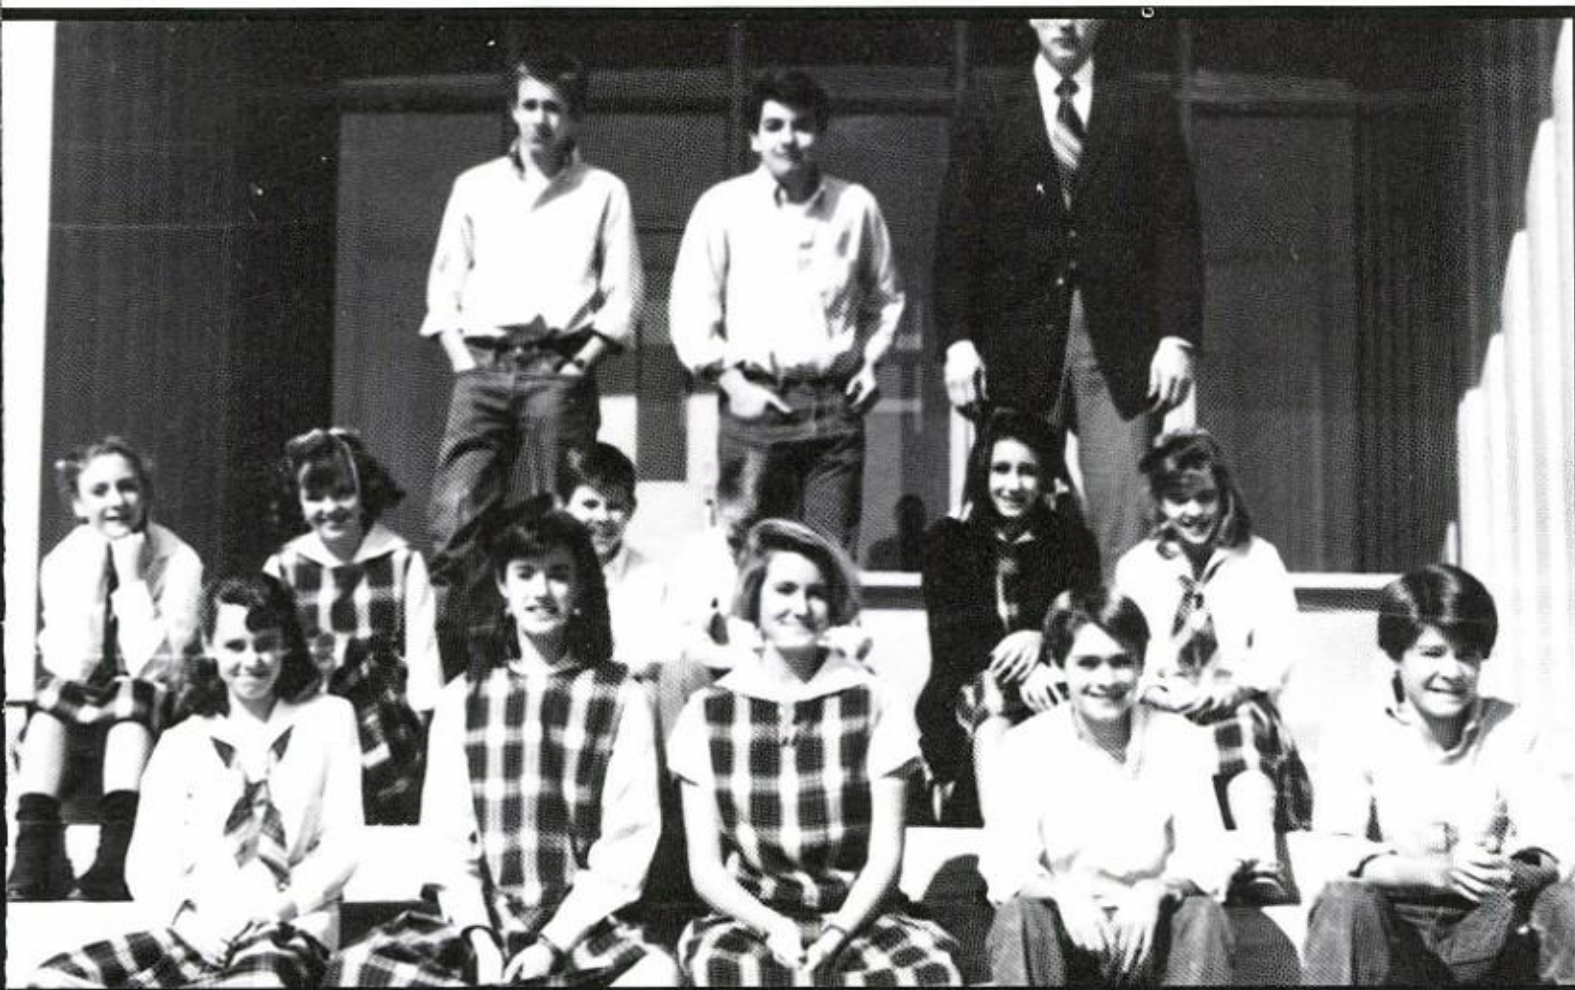

STUDENT COUNCIL

President, Matt

DeLeon, is luckily accompanied by such hard-workers as Andrea Beckner-(Treasurer) and Brian Poole-(Secretary). Connor Kalista-(Freshman V.P.), and Kim Epping-(Sophomore V.P.) chime in to pull-off some really great social times. Several activities are often used to raise funds. King and Queen of the day is a common activity. Students buy tickets for themselves and other people to go in-to a drawing. When the drawing is made, the winning students receive a non-uniform day, crowns, and lunch provided by members of the student council. The lunches range from roast beef & ding dongs to cookies & MooShi Pork.

Middle School Government

Pres.-Ashley Bell, V.P.Boys-John Ray, V.P.Girls-Elizabeth Bowie, Sec.-Trey Brown, and Treas.-Shelly Ferguson are the officers of this year's Student Council. Class Reps. for 6th Grade are Natalie Chin, and Michelle Ogle. 7th Grade Reps. are Stephanie Bolton, Brian Crumley, and Kris Meyer. Eighth Grade Reps. are Lee Palvadore, Jenny Crawford, and Jed Richards.

◀ Ashley Bell leads a meeting in the science lab. ▼ John Ray, as many Student Council folks know, has to mix quick lunches with important meetings. ▶ During campaign time, Trey Brown stops to pose for the "lime light."

NEWSPAPER STAFFS

World breaking news is reported by staff members in the Middle School under their advisor, Mrs. Van Allen. ►

High School news

publications were sponsored by Mrs. Shaw this past year. Pictured here in a journalistic pose of repose are: Jennifer Ringer, Connor Kalista, Derika Ford, Mike McKiethen, Bret Lefler, and Mrs. Shaw. Although the newspaper inserts were sparse on occasion, the talent in this group of writers would spin Ernest Hemmingway's brain!

YEARBOOK STAFFS

We computerized this year, causing the word TECHNOLOGY to become a dirty word! The High School Staff members are: Editors, Sylvia Arabian, and Brain Poole; Layout, Alex King; Copy, Connor Kalista; Business, Sybil Ehninger; Photo Orga., Monica Beckley; Production, Adam Zimmerman; Photographers and Darkroom, Matt Van Allen, and Tiffany Myers; Index, Kim Epping.

▲ High School Editors, Sylvia Arabian, and Brain Poole find their way through a deadline. As a part of Yearbook training, Brian Pierce, an advertising genius, talks to the staff. Middle School Editors, Houston Lane, Stacy Whitehurst, and Michelle Dunagan are quick to spot the needs of a layout.

Saints' Strings consists of (Back Row):

Conductor-Mrs. Fran Kerlin, her two sons, Paul Kerlin and Eliot Kerlin;

Suzuki Violin is more than a teaching technique, it is a way to think while making music. Saints' Strings are an organized group of folks who get together many times a week to practice each week. They perform at each school function which calls for the sound of strings in the air. Coached by Fran Kerlin, and taught by many talented professional students of violin, Saints' Strings add an element of culture to the Organizations of All Saints' Episcopal School.

ALPS IN ACTION

Michael Sethi adds water to an experiment in the ALPS class. This class is for the more advanced students who enjoy doing other things. They do projects, research papers, and scientific experiments.

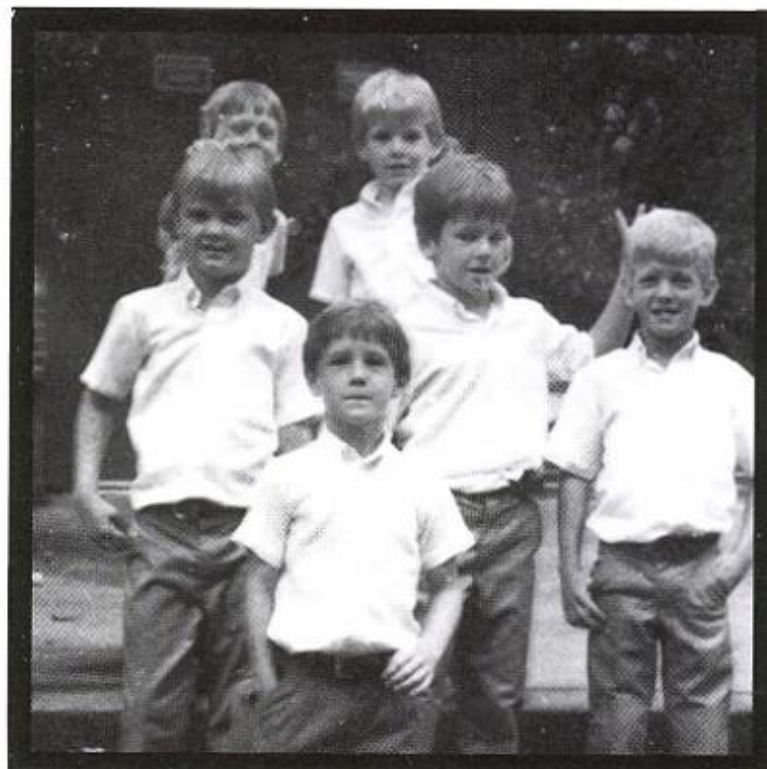

FIELD TRIPS

The Seventh grade went to Fossil Rim this year and looked for crustations from the Paleolythic era. As they sit in their circle and receive instructions the thought of finding a rare fossil is a hope of the student majority

Here Grant Jordan, Chad Lemons, Burch Tipton, Matthew Angle, Barrett Vawter, and Jarrod Sims are on their Second Grade trip. In the Lower School many of the grades go on field trips at various times of the year.

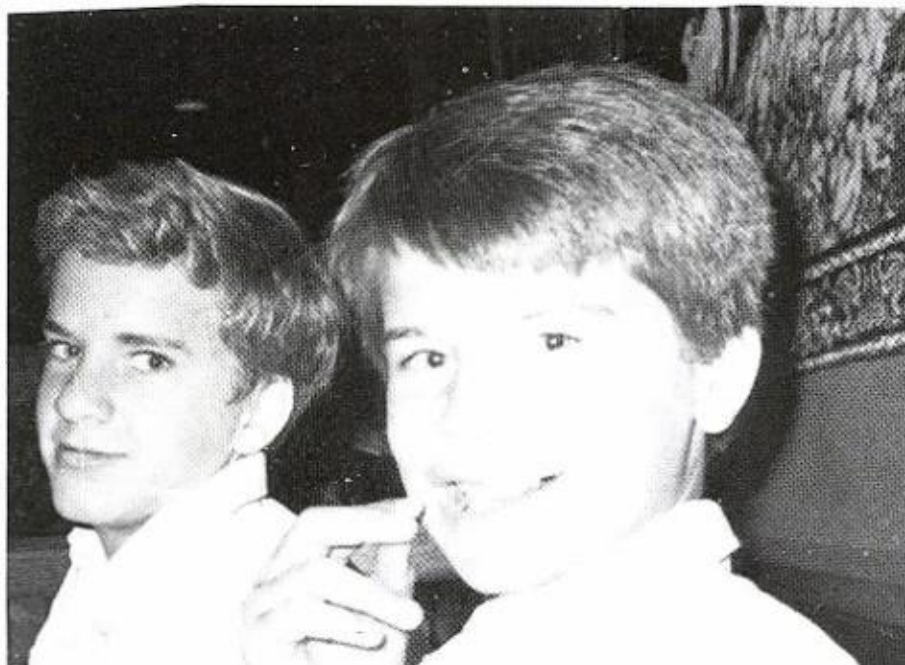

GRANDPARENT'S DAY

► Grandparents are greeted by Mrs. Van Allen. ▼ Jeff Needham and Trey Brown enjoy a day out to lunch for a Saints' Day. ▼► Brian Bigley's eyes cross as he finishes his coke.

SAINTS' DAYS

These are two of the many grandparents that came to the school's Grandparents' Day Program. All of the Lower Grades put on a show. It's an enjoyable event, even for upper grades; often Grandparent's drop in to see a Literature class in progress or review a little Algebra.

Volleyball • Highschool

“We heard someone say that winning wasn’t important, it was how we played the game . . . we took that seriously!”

► Sybil Ehninger, Kim Epping, and Monica Beckley trade off their serves.

► Jennifer Ringer, Angela Rutherford, and Monica Beckley play out the last serve.

Hey, do we look disgusted? Walking from the court ◀ Caren Walker, the team’s coach gives a word of encouragement to Diane Steinman, Andrea Beckner, Alicia Taylor, and Sybil Ehninger.

Spirit, spirit Andrea Beckner and Jennifer Ringer keep their spirits up.

Volleyball • Middle School

“We heard someone say that we were a winning team, and we took it seriously.”

▶ Tennes squeeeking bring alive the tension during a V.B. game. Allicia Raper, at close net, awaits her chance to volley.

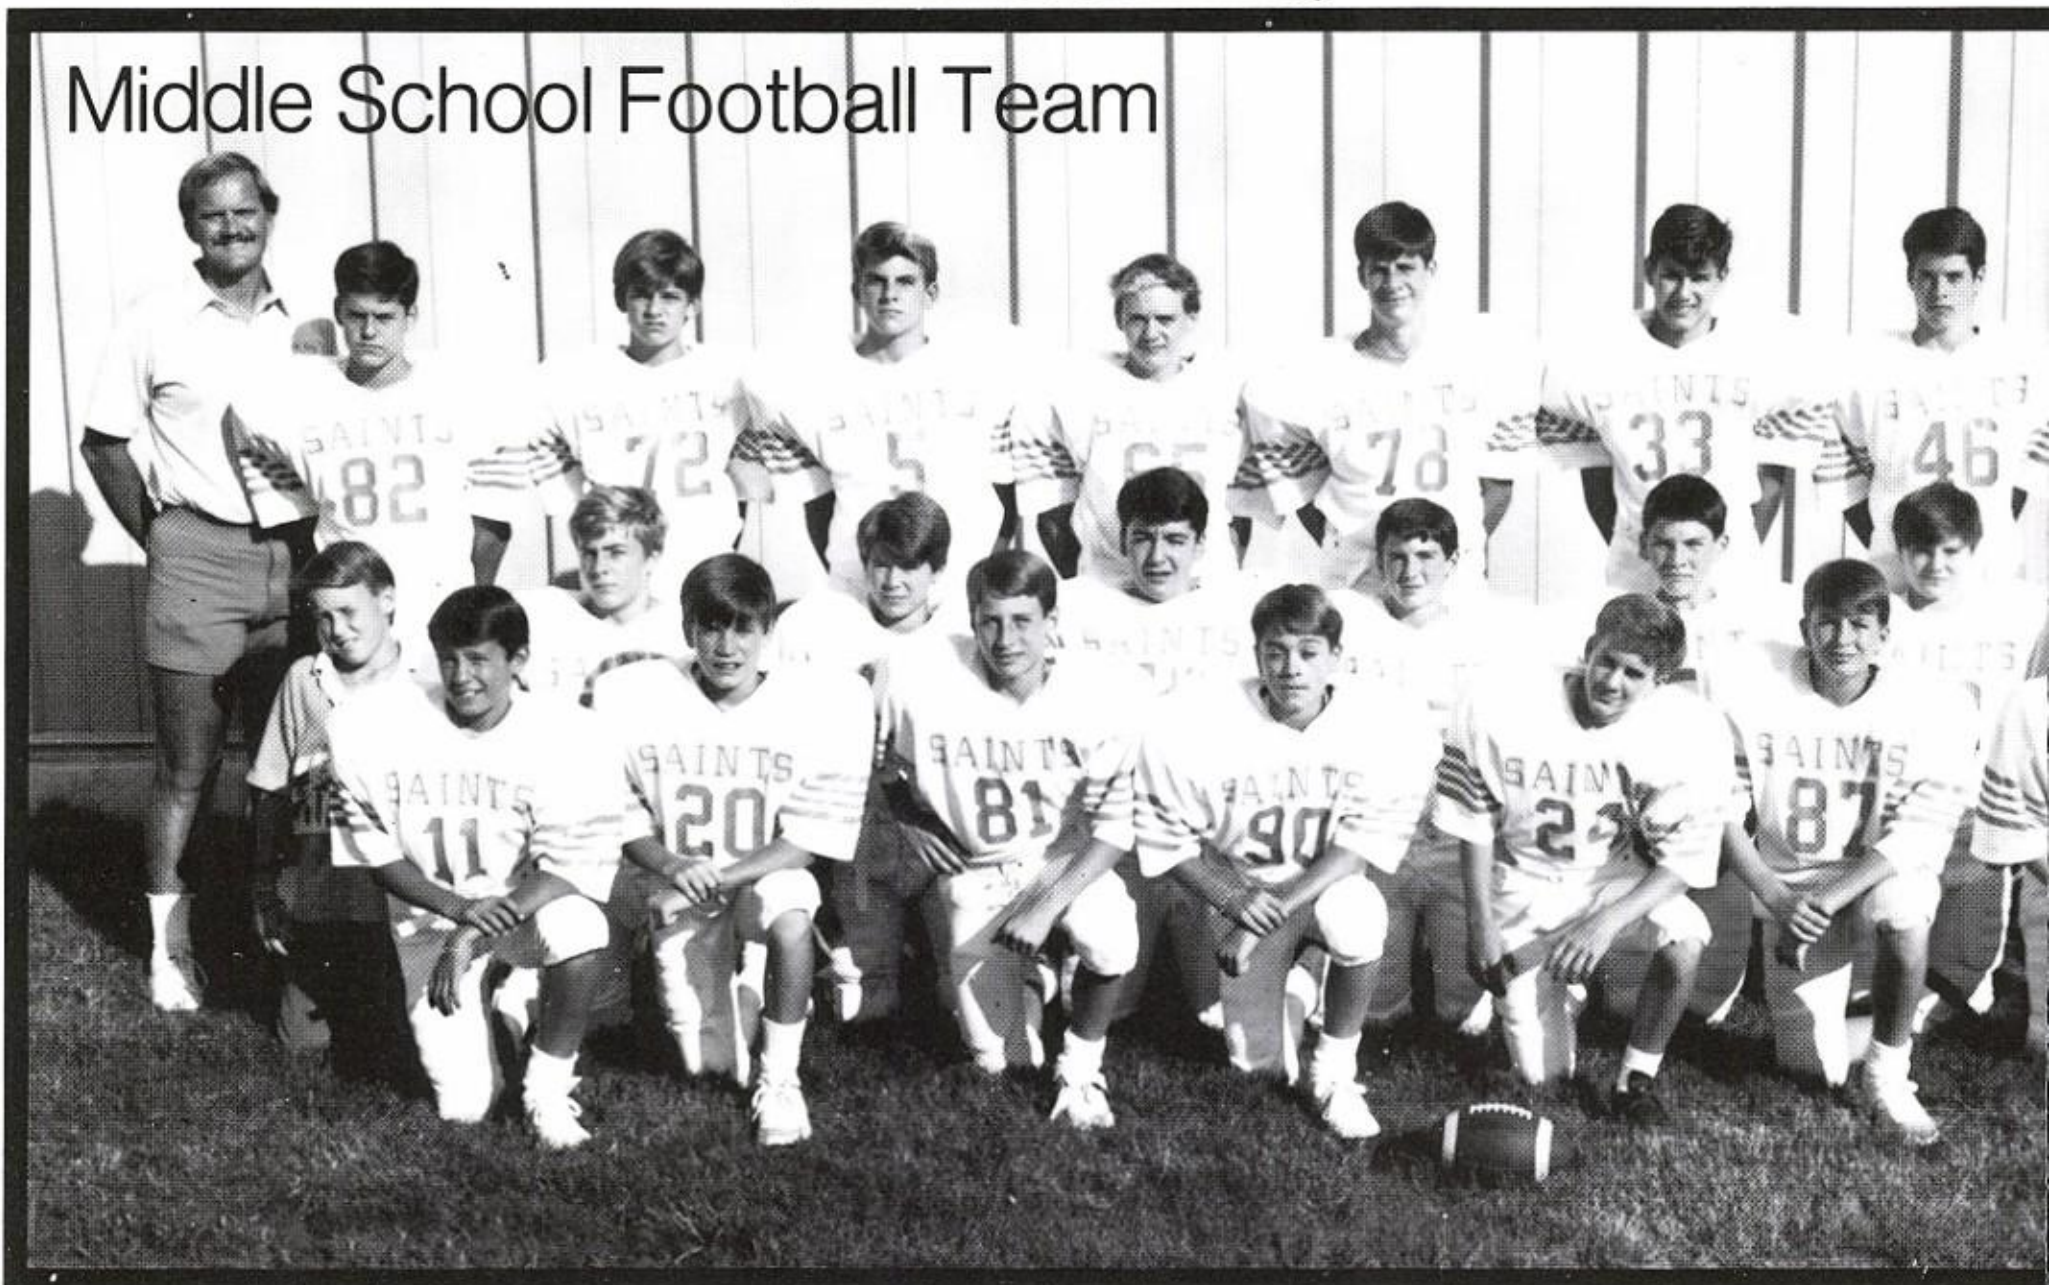

◀ Kristi Shea and team members await the refs' call on a return shot.

▶ After a sweaty game, Jennifer Flinn, Ashley Bell and Becky Miller “air-out” on the playground bridge.

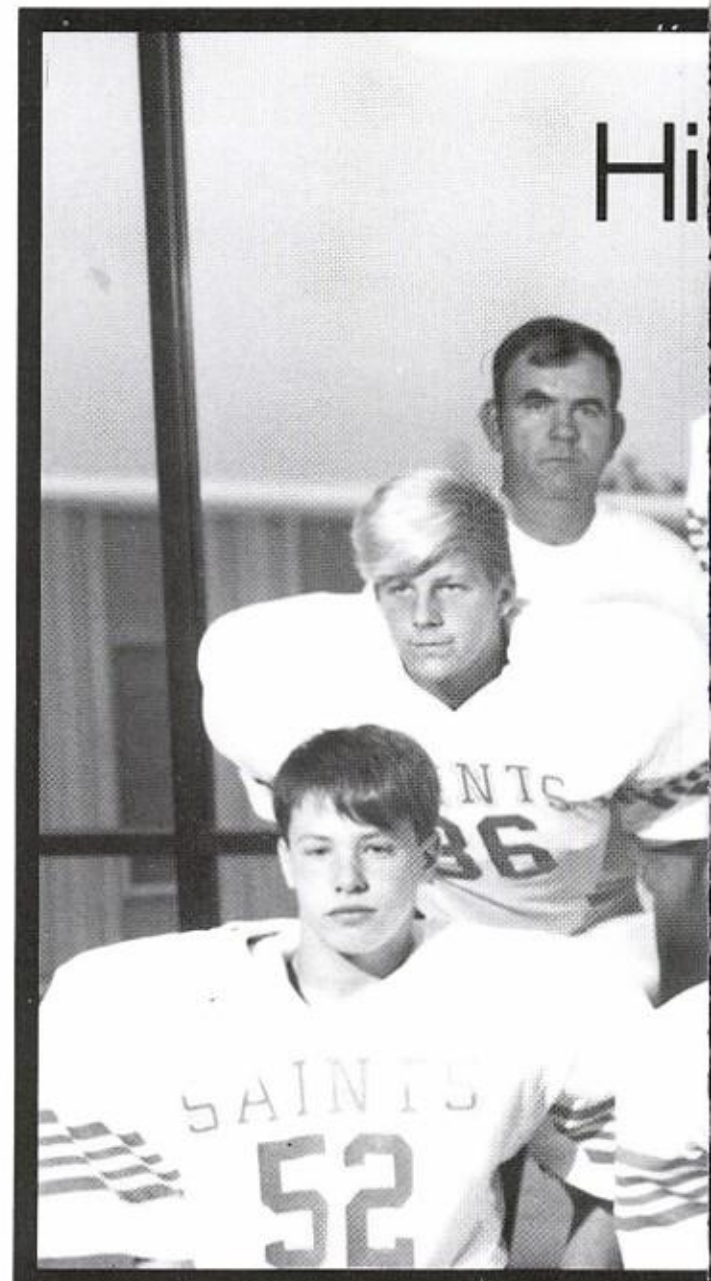

Middle School Football Team

Let's hear it for this year's Middle School Football

Coaches Peek and Everett led this year's team to a great season. They had an exciting victory over Cistercian, winning by an incredible score of fourteen to nothing. Coach Peek is really big on everybody getting to play. He believes that team spirit and learning to work well with others comes from the various levels of talent on the field all playing at the same time. He does not like the idea of "strings" in M.S. football.

School Football Team

◀◀ Heath Lindley takes a water break. ◀ A man is down and the Saints rush to the scene to save the day. ▲ Trudy Skiles and Teresa McKay cheer on the victorious team.

▲ Ryan McConnell and Trey Brown make a lead block for their running back. ◀ The Middle School gets ready for their arch-rivals, the Falcons! ▼ Coach Peek gives the players a pep talk.

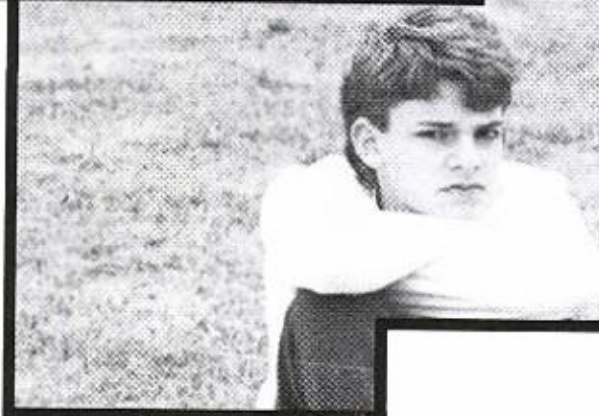

Middle School Soccer

... Gettin' Our Kicks From Soccer and Learning To Use Our Heads

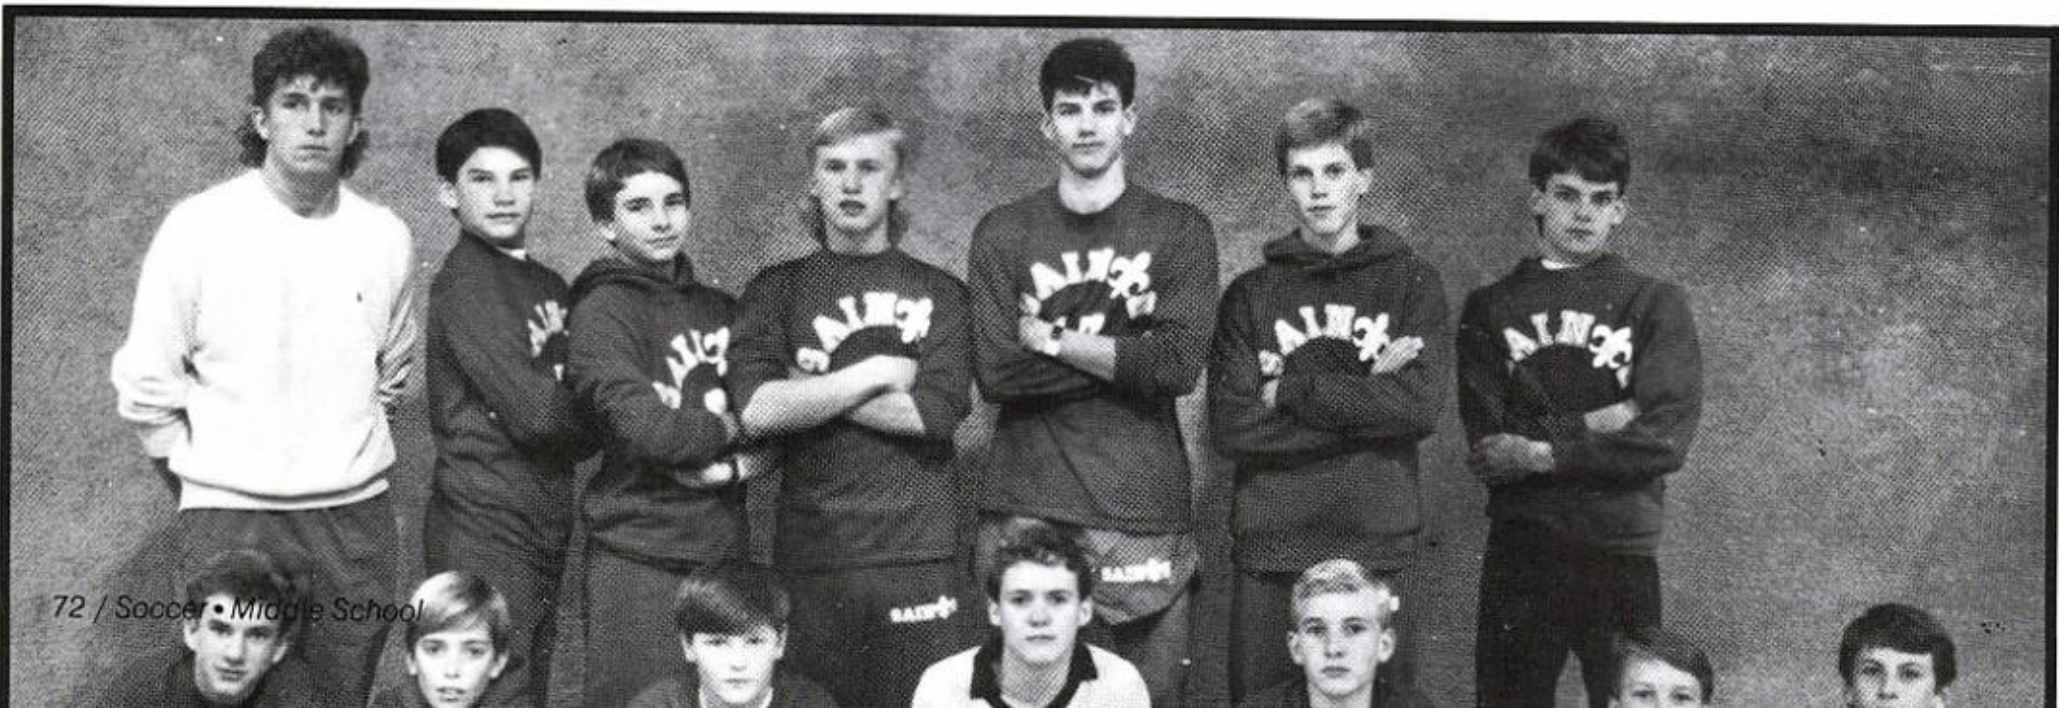

▲ Chris Meyer, Houston Lane, and Richard Hajovsky offer a pre-game prediction: All Saints over Greenhill by one goal. ▶ Joel Trott and Isaac McCarter don't seem to be quite as optimistic.

▶ Adam Brown goes in for the score against Pantego Christian. ▼ In yet another convincing victory, All Saints' scores a goal against a bewildered St. Vincent's.

High School Soccer

◀ Matt DeLeon discusses pre-game strategy with Lance Saunders during the bus ride, saying that he would rather not play goalie if Lance doesn't care. This year's High School team was a real plus to the High School sports program.

▶ Brian Poole and his "Happy Feet" perfect skills during a practice. One never knew from which angle this year's team would attack you next.

High School Soccer (in alphabetical order):
Michael Hartman, Guy Johnson, Connor Kalista, Charles Karsh, Alex King, Bret Lefler, Brian Poole, Jason Price, Brian Ross, Matt Van Allen, Adam Zimmermann, Michael McKeithen, and Coach Finch.

THE SPIRIT SAINTS

Here is Patrick Lane, part of the under 10 team, 'The Grizzlies'. The team has had victories over most of the season. SAINTS' soccer is quite a tradition; being the first formally organized sport of our school. The once glorious soccer field is now gone, housing the new building, but the players are still just as spirited as ever. "WHO NEEDS A FIELD TO BE GREAT?"

Let's hear it for this year's Grizzlies! They include (in alphabetical order) Dale Baird, Travis Bogard, Michael Crump, Skye Grayson, Jeff Guarniere, Christian Hildebrand, Dusty Hill, Courtney Junge, Christopher Kent, Patrick Lane, Matt Maben, Seph Shaw, Ryan Stow, Trent Tullous, Shannon Walker, Mark Warner, and Edward Welke.

Kim Epping, clad in letter jacket, may sound like Minnie Mouse, but she's as determined as a lion.

The Sophomore class is the newest and oldest group all at the same time this year. But, small numbers means lots of personal attention, allowing each student the time to know all of their teachers and classmates closely. ◀ Rob Brown searches his locker for the elusive homework papers.

Seeming like an ENDANGERED SPECIES, Heath Lindley, a tenth grader enjoys his Study Hall/Freetime either in the resource room or in the art room. 'The 'Fishies' may feel like they're more popular because they outnumber us, but just remember, we're BIGGER!'

◀ Kim Cochran and Andrea Beckner listen intently as "Mr. Hamburger" explains the newest food offerings as A.S.H.S. Something eatable at school?

High School and It's

▲ Mrs. Coldiron studies over Gordon Fitzgerald's pig. ► What is Daniel Jackson looking at?

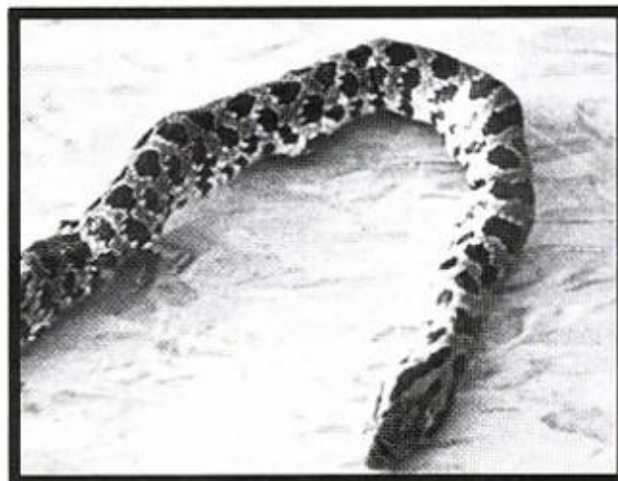

▲ It's the Giggle Club! Rob Brown, Kim Epping & Kim Cochran.

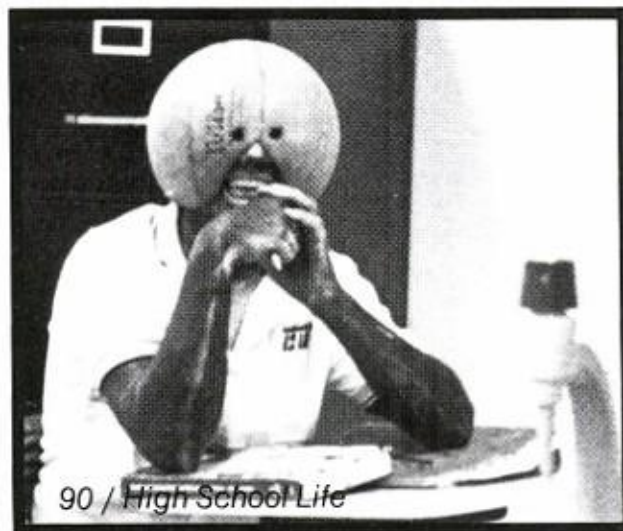

◀ Kim Epping does what all high school students do after school. ► One of the first new High School students was the copperhead snake. Although this is a non-discriminatory school, we still killed the sucker before he had a chance to pay activity fees.

► Michael Hartman smiles at his masterpiece in the art room, a favorite place to hang out.

The latest thing in the High School . . . well, actually it's ALL new. The students find all the Journalism, Art, English, History, French, Spanish, Sports, P.E., Biology, GPS, Algebra, and Geometry courses all are challengingg but the work all pays off in the end. The students enjoy most of their day on campus; there's a nice mix of different personalities and all students seem to get along with each other.

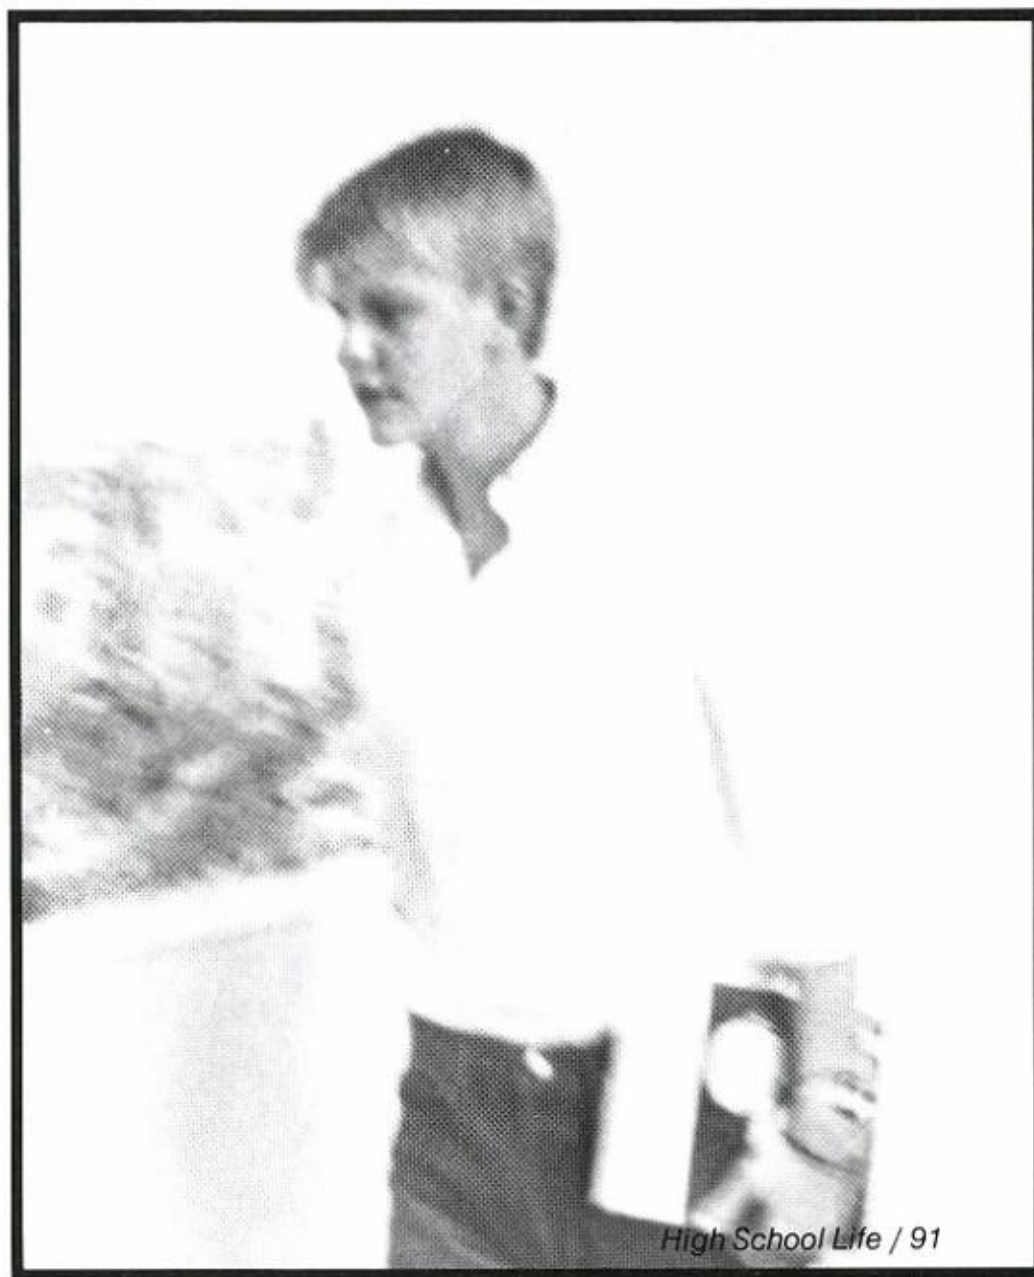

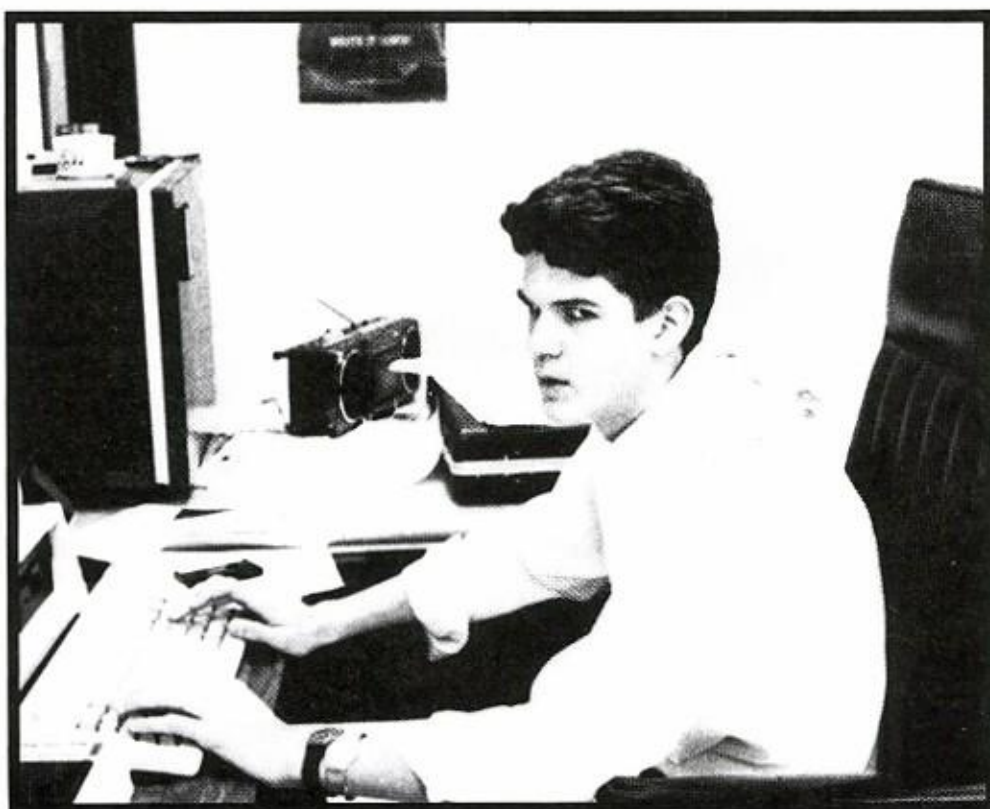

It's Basket Head! Jason Price at Halloween. Costumes were worn by most, and originality outdid most of the Elementary School outfits this year. Of course, Target doesn't sell Carebear costumes in adult sizes, either.

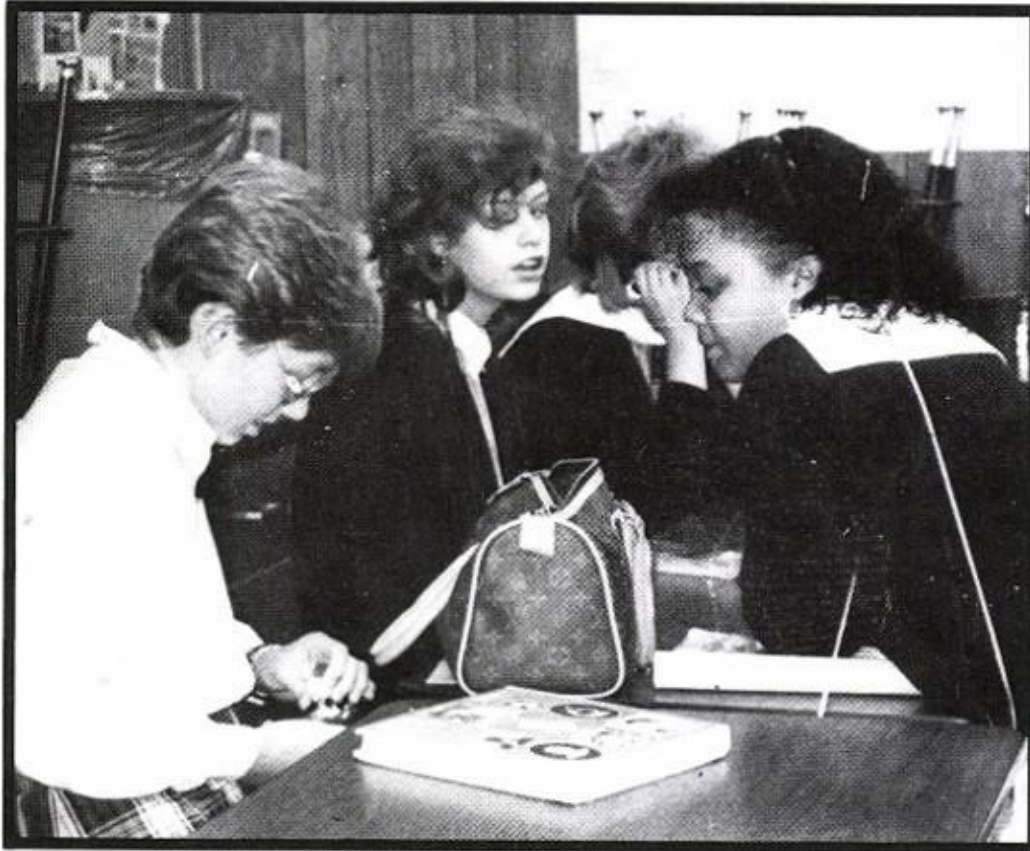

HAPPENINGS

And here is our Sophomore class! They are: Guy Johnson, Kim Cochran, Rob Brown, Kim Epping, and Andrea Beckner. Now shall we ask what Rob Brown is doing? These will be our first Senior graduates in 1989. Some people were returning All Saints' students, others are experiencing being a part of our family for the first time. Being the oldest in a family is sometimes hard to handle; but they help to set the pace for future All Saints' High students.

▼ Connor Kalista glares at the computer. "Why can't this thing spell words without me having to look them up!" Connor exclaims, as he searches the Spelling dictionary one more time. ► Daniel Jackson rushes to get the correct book for biology. "Hey, I don't want to cut up a pig with a History book as a guide!"

In the Seventh grade, Betty Brock and Dionne Brown talk in the science lab while Julia Konopka and Shannon Olson compare notes. Shortly after school Elizabeth Bowie and Laura Grable discuss the day and make plans with their friends. In the Eighth grade, Mrs. Vaught's music class leaves for Seventh Period.

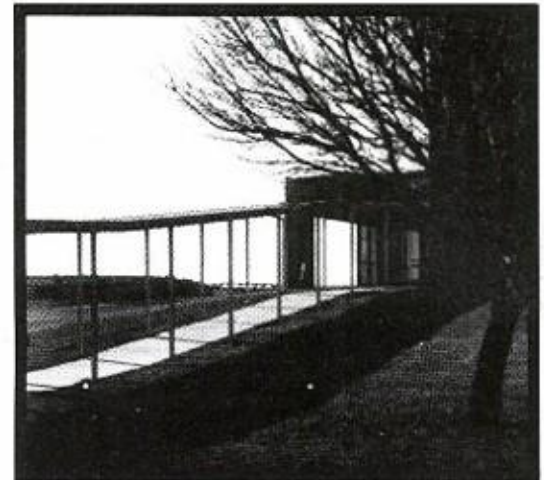

"Towards Christmas time, we took a survey of the eighth grade. We added up those bizzare results, and

THE SURVEY SAYS . . .

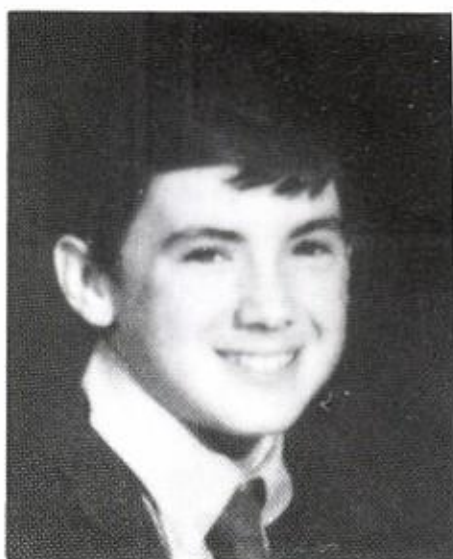

The favorite food is pizza, and the favorite topping was pepperoni. "The Cosby Show" has a terrific rating in the 8th grade, with "Moonlighting" and "Growing Pains" tied for second place. Unfortunately, we needed more subjects to ask about. No one thought the grass around the High School would make it, nor has anyone ever heard of the temperature in the Middle School going above 63° when it is cold and below 94° when it is hot. Among the Eighth Graders, the covered sidewalks have a bad reputation. According to them, not one has less than three leaks, and none do their jobs effectively when it rains!

Alas, right when we were almost finished, we thought of a subject that we could write more on . . . lockers. One person has never rigged their locker, one person has a semi-organized locker, and NOBODY'S locker is free of writing. Frankly, the answers surprised us. We thought EVERYBODY had rigged their locker."

Texas History and "real" lab experiments in Science add variety to the day. In literature, the book report list contains selections that even our parents are currently reading. This year we bought our books, allowing us to actually highlight important facts as they are read. Seventh grade is a great improvement over Sixth if for no other reason than we aren't the "babies" in the M.S. anymore!

LIFE

“When the Tough Get Going, You Know It’s Fourth Grade”

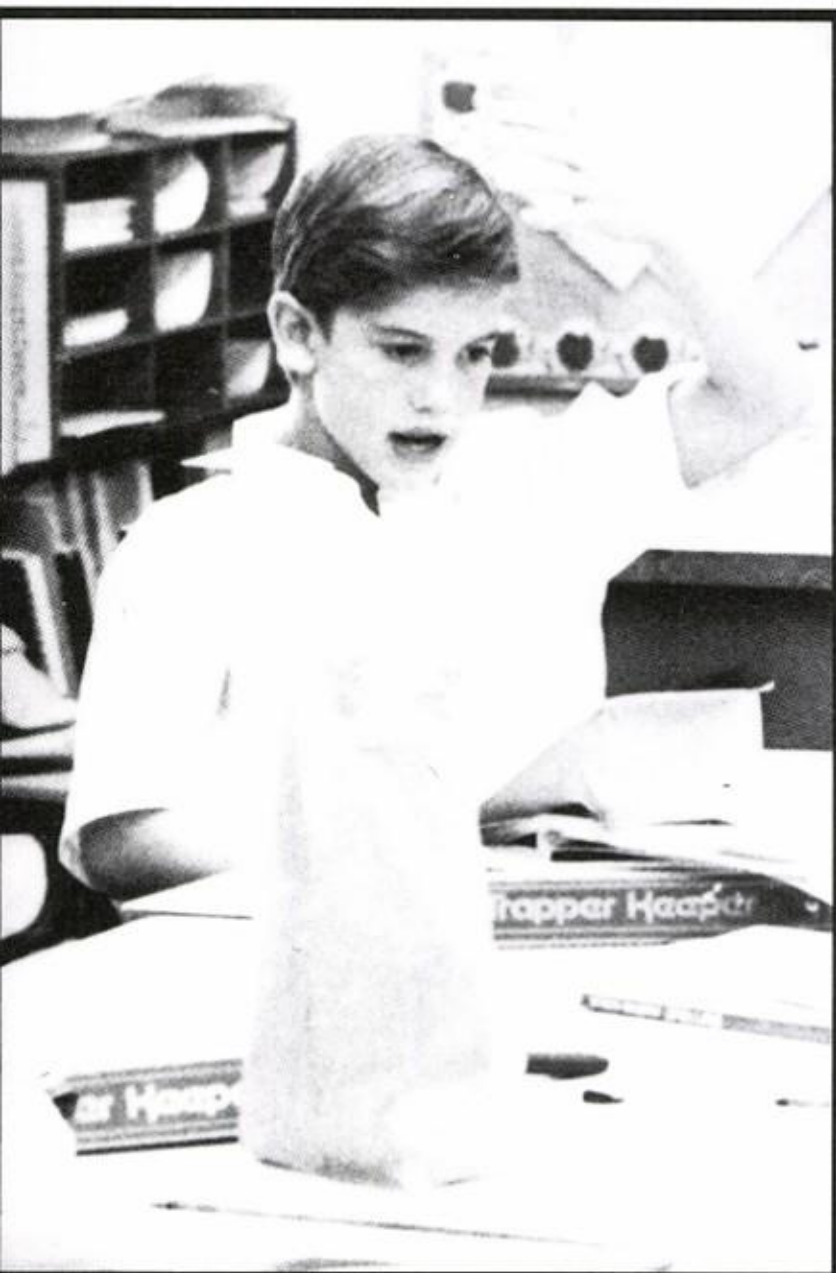

Between the classwork, there's a little bit of time for play. For three years, the “Big School” kids have been in training for the skills needed in Fourth grade. Social Studies becomes more like History and Literature becomes less like Dr. Seuss. In fact, Maggie Moore is quick to tell you, “My brother said that Fifth grade gets you ready for Middle School . . . I can't imagine not being ready right now!”

“We May

The daily life of a first grader consists of learning the basic reading and mathematic skills. Of course there is always time to create a finger painting picture or "hanging around" on the various configurations of bars on the jungle gym. "This year's First Graders are the most creative bunch I've seen." On Halloween they were no longer a group of mild mannered first graders but were mystically transformed into ninjas, witches and a variety of celebrity figures.

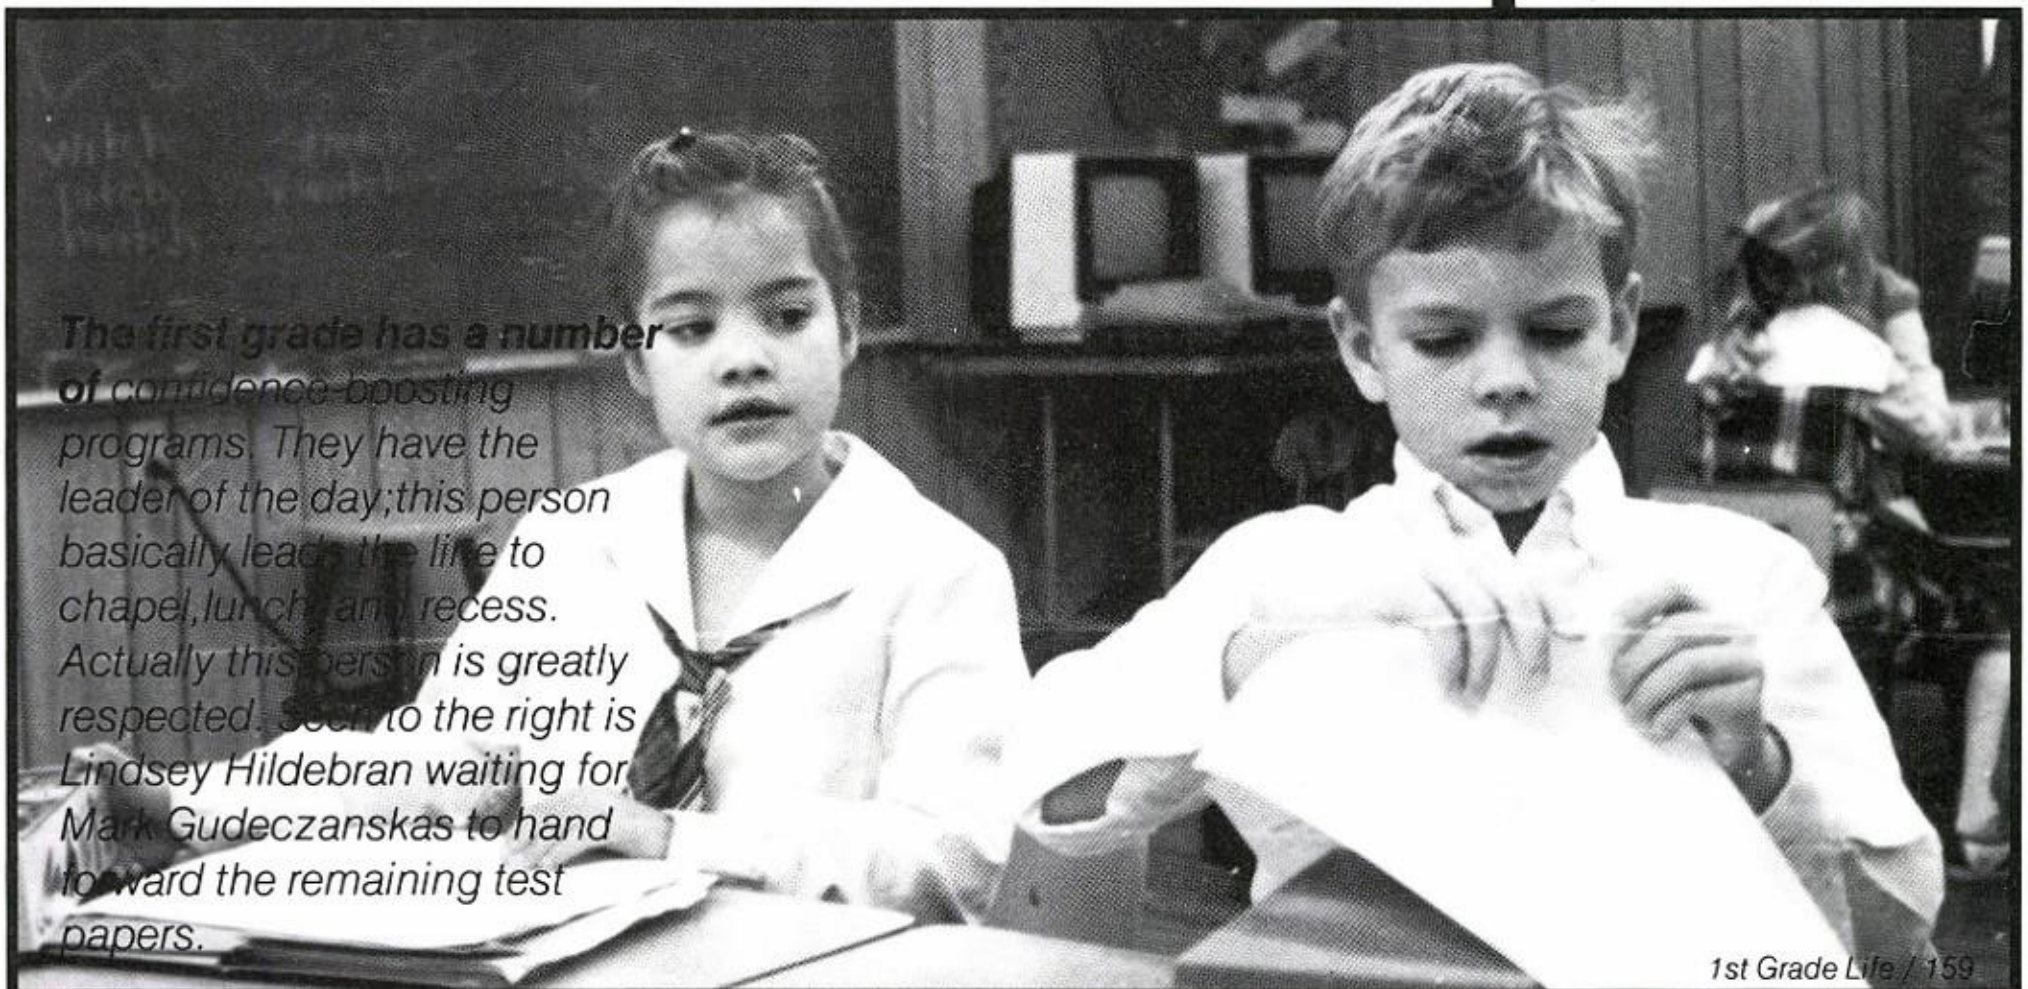

1st Grade Life

▲ ▲ Allison Rogers and Kelly Kerr are beginning the first lesson of many pertaining to geography. ▲ Stephanie Stegman awaits to be called on as the others contemplate the questions. ◀ Two first graders finish the remaining questions on a math quiz.

Above is Mrs. Gant's class catching the photographer before he had chance to catch them in action. To the left is Sarah Kemble and Katie Harrah 'shoo-ing' off the photographer as they work.

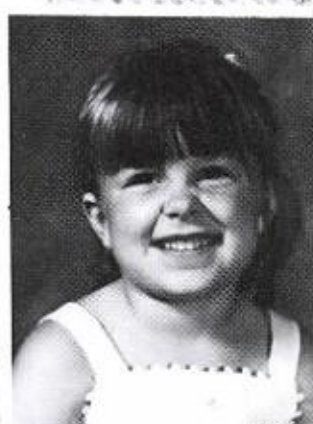

The first grade has a number of confidence-boosting programs. They have the leader of the day; this person basically leads the line to chapel, lunch, and recess. Actually this person is greatly respected. Seen to the right is Lindsey Hildebran waiting for Mark Gudeczanskas to hand forward the remaining test papers.

LIFE

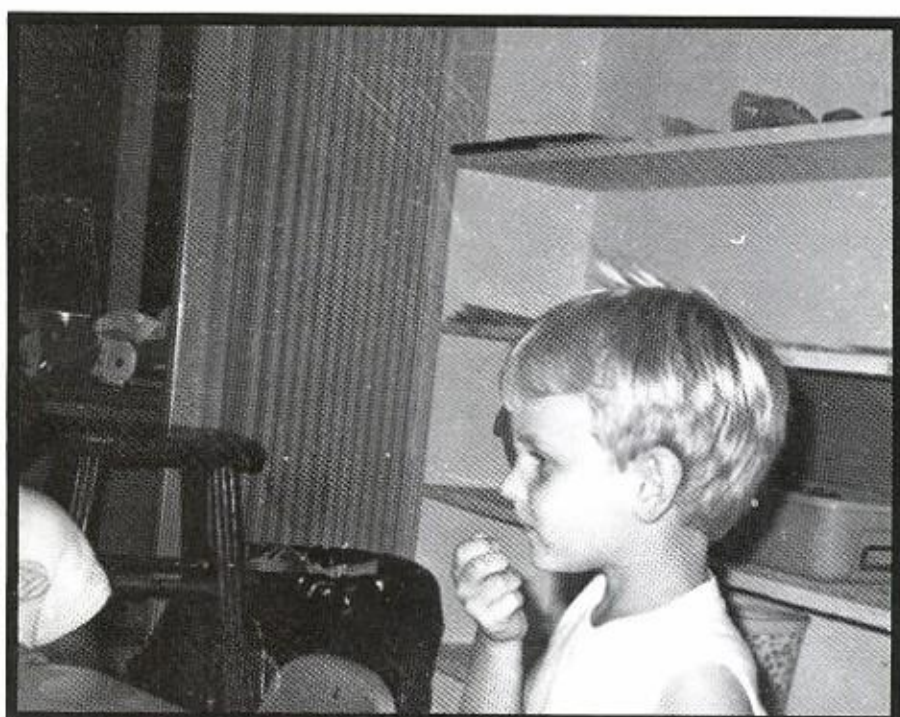

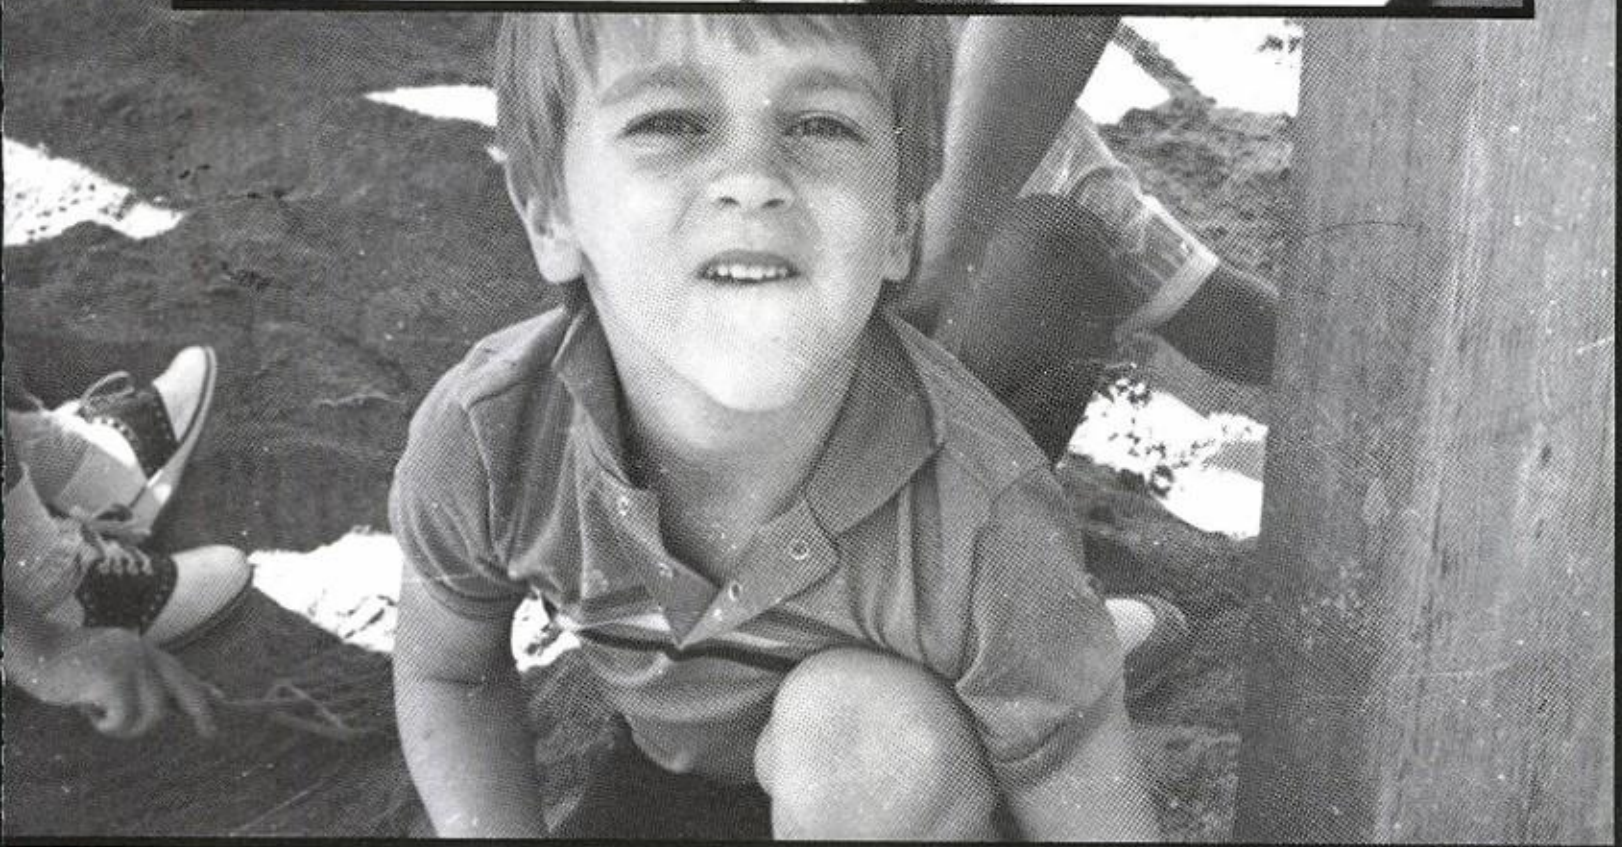

What's The Pre-school Do All Day? Work, Work, Work and Play.

The best place to hide? It definitely is "the tube." When the kids play hide-and-seek they all want to hide there but it always seems to be on a first come first serve basis. Another favorite game is chase. The girls like to be chased but so do the boys. Somehow they all seem to keep from arguing most of the time.

The children at the Pre-School play with all sorts of things. There are blocks in the classrooms along with cars, markers, sand, and puzzles. Outside of the school there are also zoo trips, Christmas shows, and Nursing Home trips.

Beginning each day with a chapel service, the Pre-Schoolers feel that God is a first thought in their happy days. Chapel is highlighted by special programs in puppetry as well as in song. All of the children love to sing; many of the hymns are pretty long, but everyone knows the words. Their is a mood set-up just walking down the stairs into the Pre-School area.

Getting Ready
For the Real Thing!

► Jacqueline Doyle, a 3-Day Beginner in Mrs. Goin's class, already loves school.

►► Pre-schoolers Blake Baird, Ashley Davis, and Jacqueline Doyle pose inside Frosty the Snowman while classmates look on.

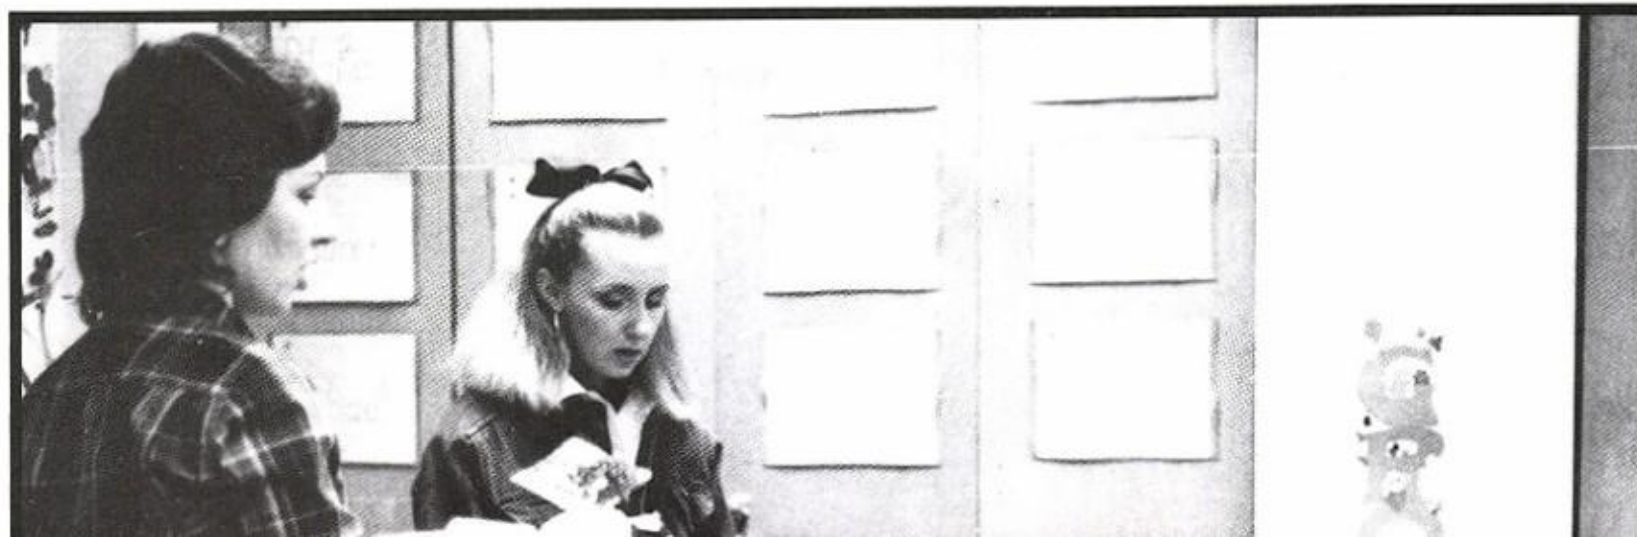

"It's neat to live right under God's house," Pre-Schooler Taylor Hulum comments.

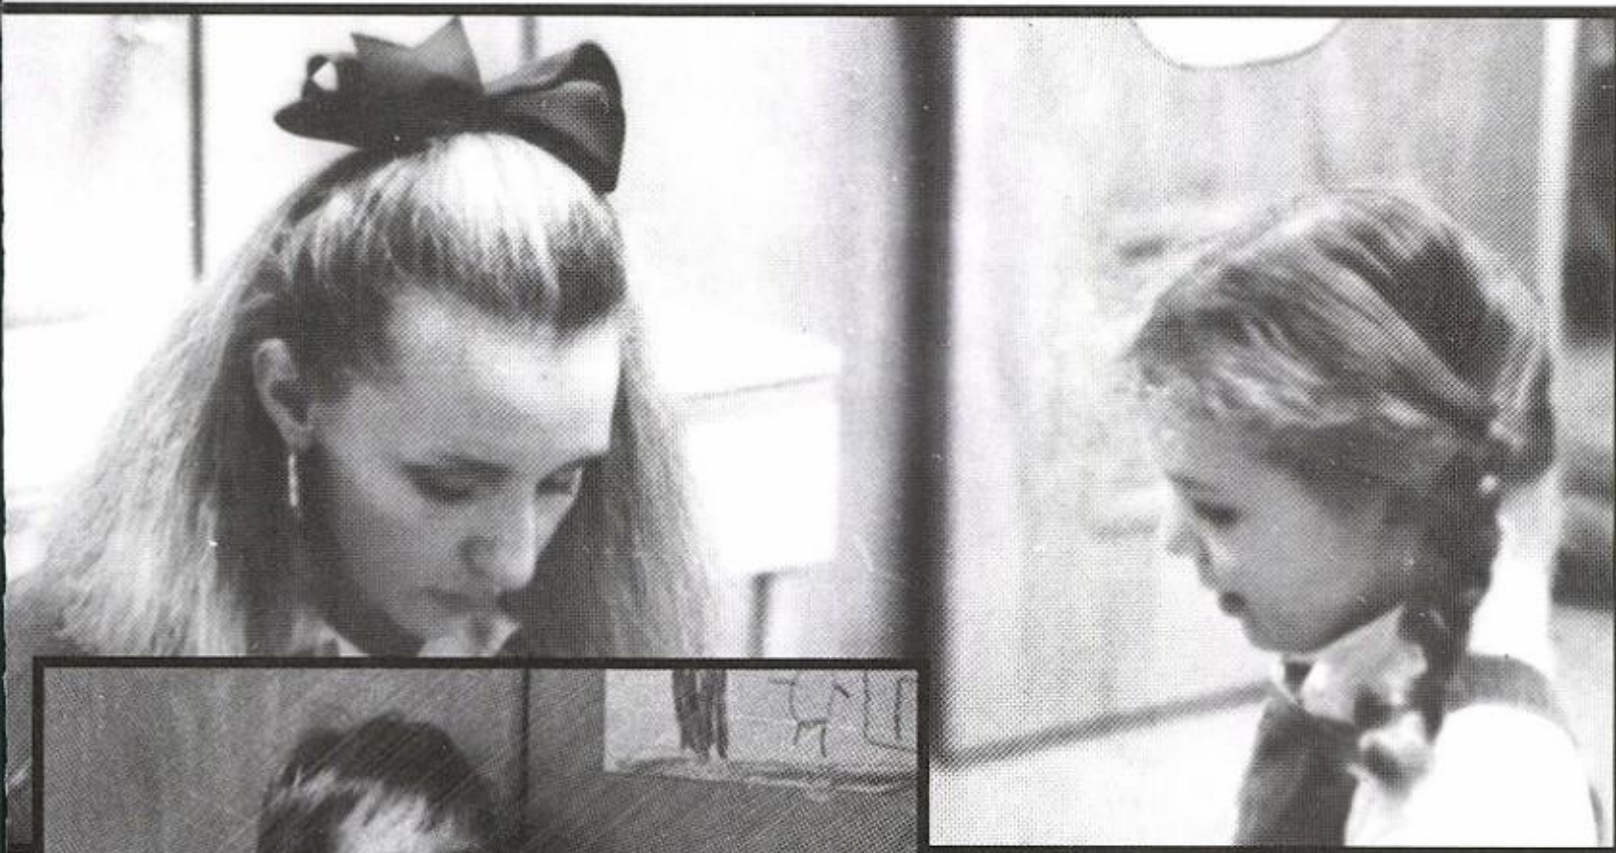

► Mrs. McCoy's class as well as the rest of the Pre-School got a close-up look at a real live fire engine. Fire prevention and safety tips are covered yearly in the Pre-School. "It's better to repeat this stuff every year than to ever have to be sorry that one child didn't automatically know what to do in case of a fire," Principal, Janet Roberson states emphatically.

► Mrs. Goin and Mary Ann Wood pass back art projects to their students.

◀ "Want to trace some shapes before class starts?" Mrs. Goin and Jacqueline Doyle sort through the shapes envelope together.

◀ ◀ Mrs. McCoy, Patricia Johnson, Greg Wood, and Beth Weinman fill in the alphabet on their morning worksheets. ◀ Taylor Hullum flies "Astro Man" Up, Up and Awayyyyyy . . .

Life In Little Land

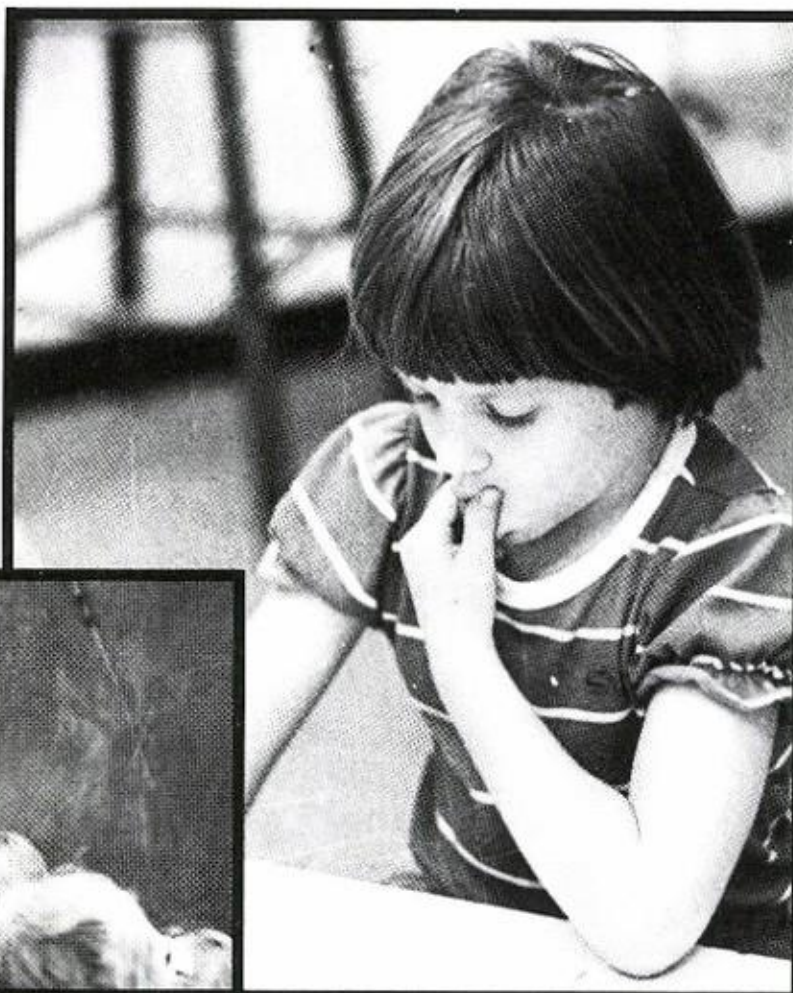

► Jaqueline Parker wonders what she is about to eat for lunch. ► A class of clever pre-schoolers begin their escape on the local fire engine. ► ▼ Caroline Stouffer lectures others on the correct procedure of play-dough sculpture. Just by this small sample of pictures you can tell these folks are on the move.

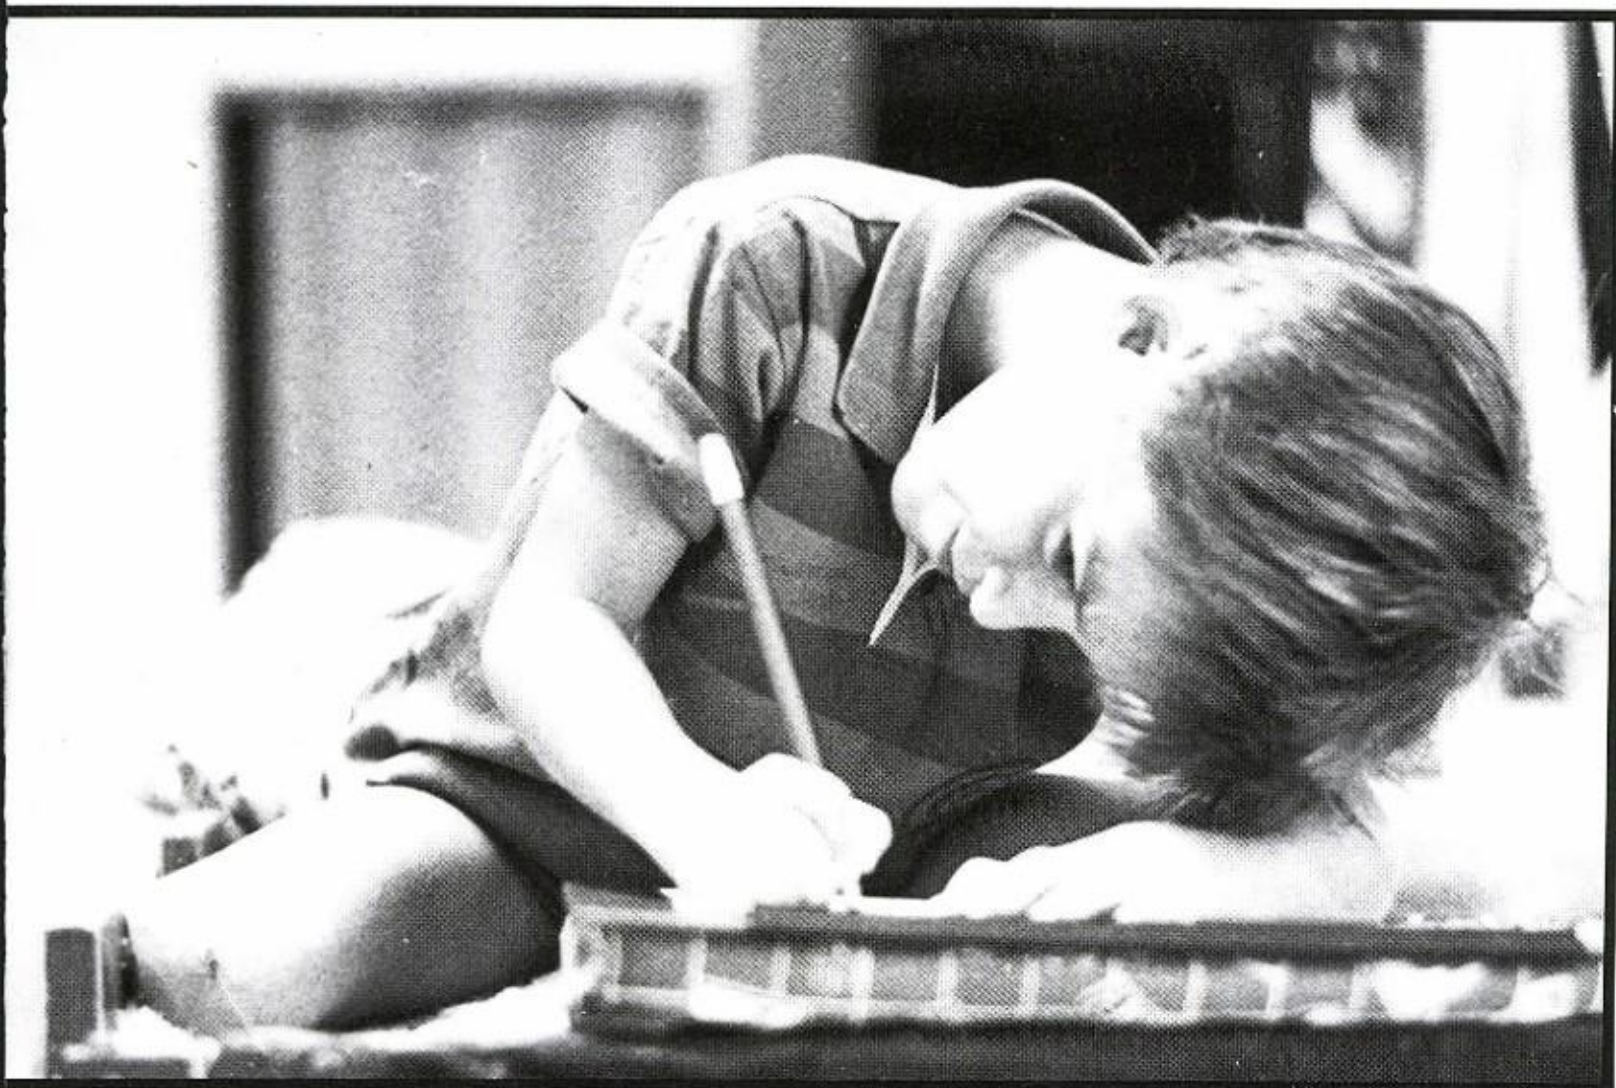

► Colin Madren is ready to start first grade soccer. ► Ward Curry is putting all the blocks in their holes.

Pre-School

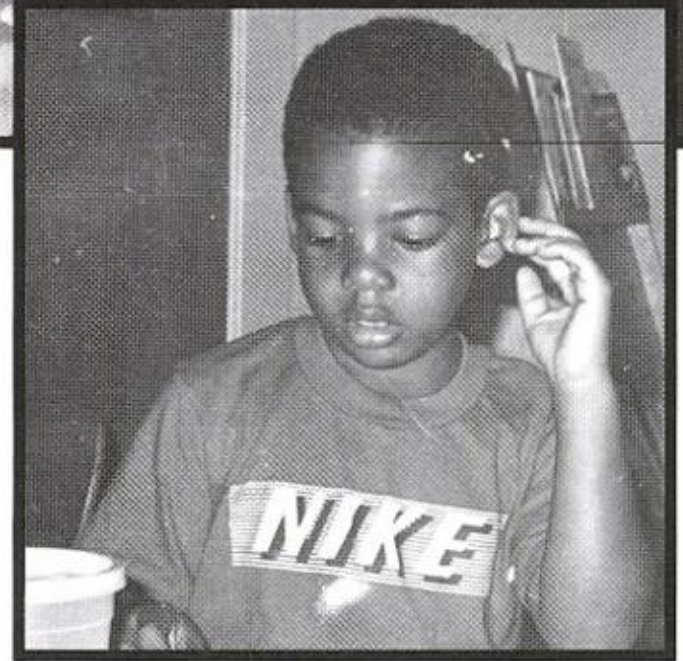

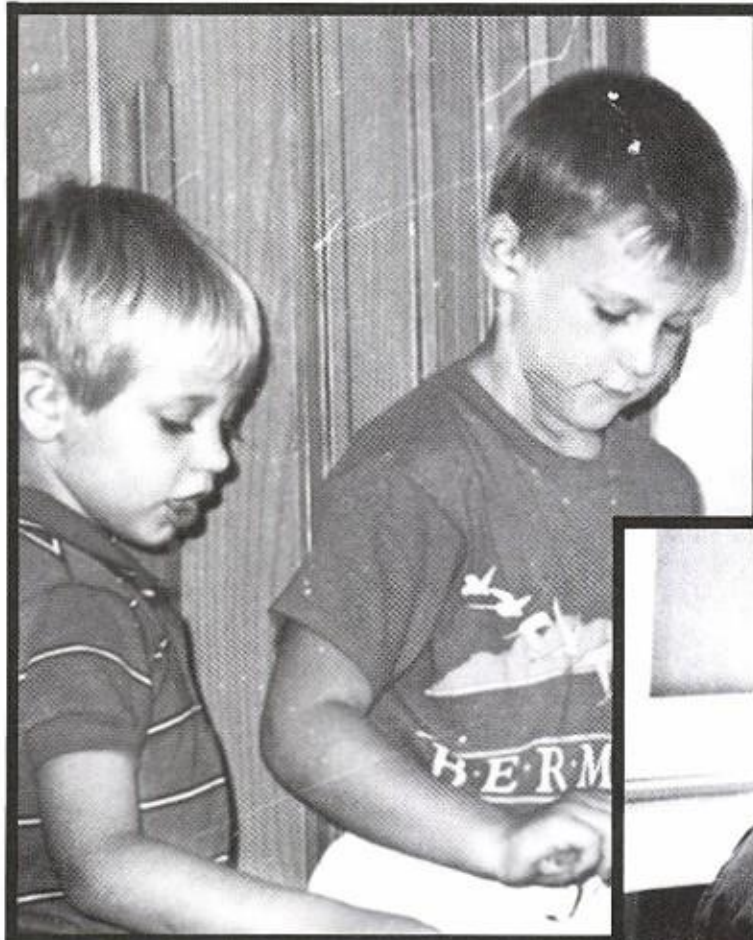

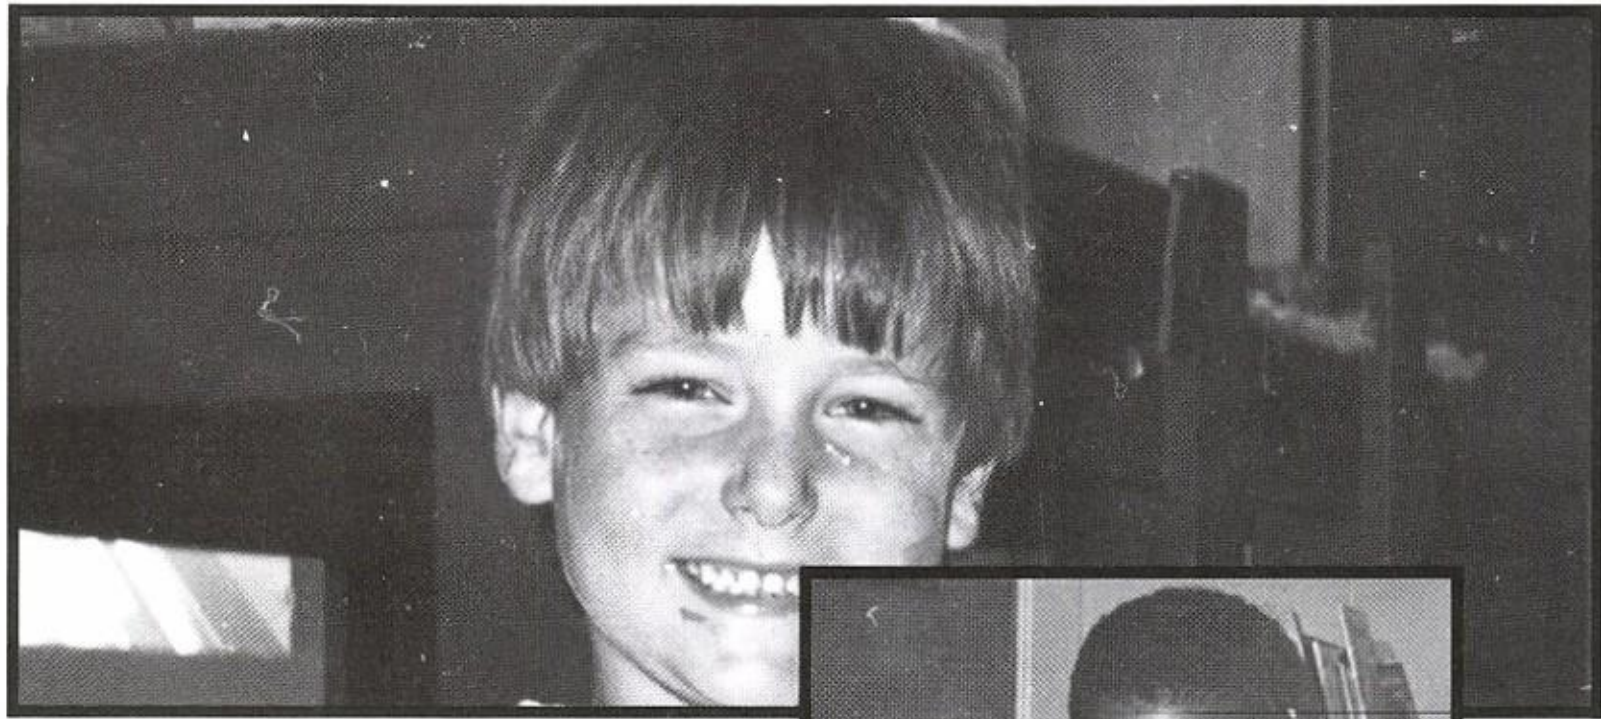

◀ The kids in Mrs. McCoy's class play with checkered paper. ▶▶ Blocks are a great learning device to help advance coordination. ▶ Brooke Gateley works on her papers VERY studiously.

◀ The teachers help the kids on their projects. ▶ Michael McGarvey works above the other kids on the play house.

Paice Mischel puts her puzzle together. The pre-school "Hangs Around." Mrs. Robertson's class learns about windows. Alex Harrell wonders "Can I Eat These?." Kathleen Kirkley hides a secret smile from others. Bridget Ball towers over her class. Trey Kellemburg shows off his muscles. Karyn Montgomery studies studiously.

"all you can eat"

♥ Graduation ♥

Until now, your goal has been to be like everyone else.
 The same kind of clothes and shoes and hair
 You might've lost touch with your self.
 Suddenly... these superficial things aren't as important as they seemed to be.
 Now is the time to examine your soul..
 Do you like the person you see?
 Will you walk through this world with selfish desires?
 Will your greatest concerns be your own?
 Will you love your brother and care for him too?
 Or will you make your journey alone?
 You know you'll get but just one chance
 Your earthly life to live.
 So learn first to make 'self' last and learn well how to give.
 For success in life is measured not by treasures you might find
 But by the good you do for others and the love you leave behind..

Krista

Have a cool summer your friend
Christian

To someone who has a soft voice Quanda

Krista,
Have a great summer. Hope we're in the same class
next year.
From: Beth

Love,
Mrs. Laeschen

Krista,

I know all the very little fight we had this winter

but you are still my best friend!

I hope we stay friends for a long time! Don't let anyone see this ok! I haven't known you very long but it sure seems like I hope we get along for a long time! Tell Bruce &

Malinda will you help me in so many fights (it's awful). Well,

Leigh kind of got us in a lot of fights too! Oh, I forgot I just have to tell you something I sure wish you were still going with Chris! I can but I know he kind of rough for you well see you soon!

~~Love~~ made
